MR. MERCHANT, the public has been harassed too long. Its ears are ringing, its eyes are weary with following wild gestures of inexperienced, amateur advertisers, booklets, circulars, business letters, etc., because they appeal to reason. The public weighs words carefully, and the balance swings toward the more solid ones. Let me show you the "difference" in advertising. Terms reasonable. George M. Zellmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

ROBBERS' CAR DRIVER CONFESSES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 6.—The confession of Frederick Kelly, a chauffeur, that he drove the automobile for the highwaymen who black jacked two employees of the American Can Company of $2,700 in Fourteenth street yesterday, resulted in the arrest of three other men early today. They are Joseph Longo, Joseph Reardon and James Fay.

Joseph Longo, who said chauffeur, head of the detective bureau, where he is said to have confessed that he had hired Kelly for $15.

Reardon was arrested in a saloon, where he was freely spending money. As he was led out to a police automobile he whispered to Kelly, who had acted as pilot for the detectives: "Don't snitch."

Fay was found in a pool room in Second avenue which he owns. He denied knowing anything about the holdup but Kelly insisted that he was one of the men who had planned and carried out the hold up daylight theft. The police have learned that the holdup was concocted in rooms once occupied as a pool room by "Kimmie" Purcell, who is now in the death house at Sing Sing.

The criminals were traced by the license number on the automobile.

The police are working upon the theory that there was no connection between this holdup and the one in Brooklyn, where two clerks of the Masury Painting Company were held up and robbed of $3,000 payroll cash. The only clue in the Brooklyn robbery is that the holdup men escaped in an automobile bearing a New Jersey license tag.

It didn't become known until early today that there was a third hold robbery yesterday. Malcolm Moorey, cashier of the firm of McKenzie, Voorhees & Gilman, architects, was robbed of $500 in an elevator in his office building. His pocket was picked.

ENDEAVORS MAKE PLANS.

Moonglight Sail and Visits to Various Societies Talked Over.

The executive committee of the Kingston Local Union of Christian Endeavor held a regular monthly meeting on Friday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Plans for the usual visitation of the alms house, were talked over and it was decided to ask the society of the First Reformed Church to visit the alms house some time this month; the society of the St. James M. E. Church in July; the society of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church in August and the officers of the union in September. The alms house will be visited on a Sunday and religious services held.

It was decided to hold the annual moonlight sail to South Rondout where services will be held and after the services to go for a sail down the river. The sail will be held some time in July no date being fixed as yet. The union each year holds this sail and it has always proven successful.

The union voted to pledge $25 towards the fresh air fund and $5 towards the building fund of the administration building which is to be built at Boston.

It was decided to try and visit the societies at Tilton and St. Remy this month but no dates were fixed.

The committee also disposed of the usual routine business.

St. John's Church.

A short organ recital will be given tomorrow after the evening service by H. Norman Taylor, organist of the church, assisted by Miss Marchant, organist of the Church of the Holy Spirit.

TARRYTOWN INVADDED BY I. W. W.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Tarrytown, N. Y., June 6.—Armed with clubs, firehose and tar, the members of the Tarrytown police and fire departments were ready today to repel the threatened invasion of the I. W. W. agitators who threatened to hold a mass meeting in the center of the town for the double purpose of denouncing the Rockefeller and the municipal officials of Tarrytown.

Alexander Berkman, the anarchist who served time in prison for shooting Henry Clay Frick, sent word that he would lead five hundred members of the I. W. W. into Tarrytown this afternoon for an open air meeting in Fountain Square and "would fight for the right of free speech."

Among the first of the agitators to arrive on the scene were such well known persons as Upton Sinclair, Lincoln Steffens and Leonard Abbott. They came by train from New York, arriving at noon and expressed hope that there would be no violence. Soon 60 members of the rank and file of the Newark, N. J., and Paterson, N. J., branches of the I. W. W. put in an appearance.

They were warned that 50 extra deputy sheriffs had been sworn in and that order must be maintained.

A number of women accompanied detachments of the New York branch of the I. W. W. who began trickling in during the late forenoon. They included Helen Goldwaite, known to her followers as "Helen of Troy," because of her red hair; Marie Yzesta and Rose Yzesta. They deplored the fact that "Sweet Marie" Ganz was in jail, because she would hand out some "real cuss words," they said.

The early appearance of the I. W. W. members was caused by the arraignment of Becky Edison and ten other I. W. W. agitators, to answer charges of rioting in the streets of Tarrytown last week. They were brought here from White Plains in automobiles for arraignment before Justice of the Peace Moorhouse.

More Up-to-Date Stores.

Frank Forman and Haskell Epstein, of the Up-to-Date Company, have recently been in Troy, Syracuse and Utica, with a view to establishing branch stores of their business in Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh. While no definite announcement has been made the success of the company has been so marked in the past few years that it is likely that other stores will be added to the chain before long.

Three Killed by Tornado.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mason City, Ia., June 6.—A tornado at Sanborn last night killed three people, injured six, demolished ten residences, four business buildings, two grain elevators and a roundhouse. The damage was slight in the adjacent country so far as known.

MEDIATION MAY BE ABANDONED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 6.—That the South American diplomats soon will give up their efforts to establish peace in Mexico and will leave Niagara Falls, was the prediction freely made today in official circles here.

Reports from the mediation conference and from Tampico were considered discouraging. But the most ominous feature of the situation is said to be the administration is said to have made the United States liable to a charge of bad faith toward the mediators by permitting the landing of arms at Tampico by the tramp steamer Sunshine in the face of the assurances by Secretary of State Bryan that orders had been issued to the customs collectors of the U. S. to refuse clearance to American ships carrying arms to Mexican ports.

Despite the fact that legal officers of the commerce department have advised the state department that the refusal of clearance to such ships in the absence of an embargo is illegal, Secretary Bryan insists that no ships carrying arms or ammunition for Mexican ports will be given their proper papers.

The reported landing of the Sunshine's cargo and the rumor that another vessel at New York has sought clearance for a Mexican port with a cargo of arms, caused much uneasiness here and Washington still in a quandary regarding future shipments of arms.

Another phase of the problem which officials are trying to clear up is whether Huerta really intends to blockade Tampico. The two Federal gunboats still are under close surveillance of the United States war vessels Tacoma and Sacramento. Huerta's only other warship on the east coast, the armed tug Tampico, is reported in the river Alvarado and thus far no move toward enforcing the blockade order has been reported.

Diplomats believe that grave complications would result from an attempt to prevent a blockade. That the United States intends to persist in its purpose of maintaining Tampico as an open port is the conviction of officials, based on statements by Secretary Bryan and the failure of the navy department to change the orders sent to Admiral Badger May 18 to keep the port open. This course, according to the view of many, would constitute a grave violation of neutrality by the United States inasmuch as the American government made no effort to interfere with the Constitutional campaign against the Mexican Federals at Tampico and other cities.

New Submarine Launched.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Quincy, Mass., June 6.—The Fulton, the first oil-burning submarine tender built for the United States navy, was launched at the Fore River Ship Building Company's yards today. Mrs. Alice Crary Sutcliffe of New York, great granddaughter of Robert Fulton, builder of the first steamship and for whom the new oil burner is named, christened the vessel. The Fulton is intended to serve as a "mother ship" to submarine flotillas. It is 226 feet long, has Biesel engines of the heavy oil burning type which will develop 1,000 horse power, giving her an estimated speed of 14 knots.

Charchain Company to Dissolve.

A certificate has been filed in the county clerk's office that The Charchain Company, which manufactures shirts on Field Court, has filed papers with the secretary of state at Albany for the voluntary dissolution of the corporation.

WILD WOMEN BURN ANOTHER MANSION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, June 6.—Another serious fire in the wave of suffragette incendiarism which is sweeping Great Britain occurred today at High Wycombe. Members of the arson squad of the Women's Social and Political Union burned Tyler's Green, an elegant mansion, which was untenanted at the time. The building was destroyed with damage estimated at $30,000.

Upon the lawn about the house was a quantity of suffrage literature. Some of the placards were warnings directed to King George. Others were such appeals as "Stop torturing women" and "Give us the vote."

ABRUZZI MAY BE ALBANIAN KING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, June 6.—The duke of the Abruzzi may be invited by the powers to succeed Prince William of Wied as king of Albania.

Dispatches received here today from Durazzo say that Prince William is determined to give up the throne because of the growing revolutionary activity in Albania.

If the powers do not select a duke, the duke of the Abruzzi, the place will probably be offered to the Italian duke.

I'll turn your discarded furniture into ready money or exchange it for household articles that are more needed.

ROBBERS' CAR DRIVER CONFESSES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, June 6.—The confession of Frederick Kelly, a chauffeur, that he drove the automobile for the highwaymen who black jacked two employees of the American Can Company of $2,700 in Fourteenth street yesterday, resulted in the arrest of three other men early today. They are Joseph Longo, Joseph Reardon and James Fay.

Reardon was arrested in a saloon, where he was freely spending money. As he was led out to a police automobile he whispered to Kelly, who had acted as pilot for the detectives: "Don't snitch."

Fay was found in a pool room in Second avenue which he owns. He denied knowing anything about the holdup but Kelly insisted that he was one of the men who had planned and carried out the hold up. Light theft. The police have learned that the holdup was concocted in rooms once occupied as a pool room by "Kimmie" Purcell, who is now in the death house at Sing Sing.

The criminals were traced by the license number on the automobile.

The police are working upon the theory that there was no connection between this holdup and the one in Brooklyn, where two clerks of the Masury Painting Company were held up and robbed of $3,000 payroll cash. The only clue in the Brooklyn robbery is that the holdup men escaped in an automobile bearing a New Jersey license tag.

It didn't become known until early today that there was a third hold robbery yesterday. Malcolm Moore, cashier of the firm of McKenzie, Voorhees & Giamen, architects, was robbed of $500 in an elevator in his office building. His pocket was picked.

ENDEAVORS MAKE PLANS.

Moonlight Sail and Visits to Various Societies Talked Over.

The executive committee of the Kingston Local Union of Christian Endeavor held a regular monthly meeting on Friday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Plans for the usual visitation of the alms' house were talked over and it was decided to ask the society of the First Reformed Church to visit the alms house some time this month; the society of the St. James M. E. Church in July; the society of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church in August and the officers of the union in September. The alms house will be visited on a Sunday and religious services held.

It was decided to hold the annual moonlight sail to South Rondout where services will be held and after the services to go for a sail down the river. The sail will be held some time in July no date being fixed as yet. The union each year holds this sail and it has always proven successful.

The union voted to pledge $25 towards the fresh air fund and $5 towards the building fund of the administration building which is to be built at Boston.

It was decided to try and visit the societies at Tilton and St. Remy this month but no dates were fixed.

The committee also disposed of the usual routine business.

St. John's Church.

A short organ recital will be given tomorrow after the evening service by H. Norman Taylor, organist of the church, assisted by Miss Marchant, organist of the Church of the Holy Spirit.

TARRYTOWN INVADDED BY I. W. W.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Tarrytown, N. Y., June 6.—Armed with clubs, firehose and tar, the members of the Tarrytown police and fire departments were ready today to repel the threatened invasion of the I. W. W. agitators who threatened to hold a mass meeting in the center of the town for the double purpose of denouncing the Rockefeller and the municipal officials of Tarrytown.

Alexander Berkman, the anarchist who served time in prison for shooting Henry Clay Frick, sent word that he would lead five hundred members of the I. W. W. into Tarrytown this afternoon for an open air meeting in Fountain Square and "would fight for the right of free speech."

Among the first of the agitators to arrive on the scene were such well known persons as Upton Sinclair, Lincoln Steffens and Leonard Abbott. They came by train from New York, arriving at noon and expressed hope that there would be no violence. Soon 60 members of the rank and file of the Newark, N. J., and Patterson, N. J., branches of the I. W. W. put in an appearance.

They were warned that 50 extra deputy sheriffs had been sworn in and that order must be maintained. A number of women accompanied detachments of the New York branch of the I. W. W. who began trickling in during the late forenoon. They included Helen Goldwaite, known to her followers as "Helen of Troy," because of her red hair; Marie Yezsa and Rose Yezsa. They deplored the fact that "Sweet Marie" Ganz was in jail, because she would hand out some "real cuss words," they said.

The early appearance of the I. W. W. members was caused by the arraignment of Becky Edison and ten other I. W. W. agitators, to answer charges of rioting in the streets of Tarrytown last week. They were brought here from White Plains in automobiles for arraignment before Justice of the Peace Moorhouse.

MEDIATION MAY BE ABANDONED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, June 6.—That the South American diplomats soon will give up their efforts to establish peace in Mexico and will leave Niagara Falls, was the prediction freely made today in official circles here.

Reports from the mediation conference and from Tampico were considered discouraging. But the most ominous feature of the situation is that the administration is said to have made the United States liable to a charge of bad faith toward the mediators by permitting the landing of arms at Tampico by the tramp steamer Sunshine in the face of the assurances by Secretary of State Bryan that orders had been issued to the customs collectors of the U. S. to refuse clearance to American ships carrying arms to Mexican ports.

Despite the fact that legal officers of the commerce department have advised the state department that the refusal of clearance to such ships in the absence of an embargo is illegal, Secretary Bryan insists that no ships carrying arms or ammunition for Mexican ports will be given their proper papers.

The reported landing of the Sunshine's cargo and the rumor that another vessel at New York has sought clearance for a Mexican port with a cargo of arms, caused much uneasiness here and Washington still in a quandary regarding future shipments of arms.

Another phase of the problem which officials are trying to clear up is whether Huerta really intends to blockade Tampico. The two Federal gunboats still are under close surveillance of the United States war vessels Tacoma and Sacramento. Huerta's only other warship on the east coast, the armed steamship Alvarado and thus far no move toward enforcing the blockade order has been reported.

Diplomats believe that grave complications would result from an attempt to prevent a blockade. The United States intends to persist in its purpose of maintaining Tampico as an open port is the conviction of officials, based on statements by Secretary Bryan and the failure of the orders sent to Admiral Badger May 18 to keep the port open. This course, according to the view of many, would constitute a grave violation of neutrality by the United States inasmuch as the American government made no effort to interfere with the Constitutional campaign against the Mexican Federalists at Tampico and other cities.

New Submarine Launched.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Quincy, Mass., June 6.—The Fulton, the first oil-burning submarine tender built for the United States navy, was launched at the Fore River Ship Building Company's yards today. Mrs. Alice Cray Sutcliffe of New York, great granddaughter of Robert Fulton, builder of the first steamship and for whom the new oil burner is named, christened the vessel. The Fulton is intended to serve as a "mother ship" to submarine flotillas. It is 226 feet long, has two engines of the heavy oil burning type, which will develop 1,000 horse power, giving her an estimated speed of 14 knots.

A BEER TALK

GOOD BEER has great nutritive and tonic properties. At mealtimes it is now being largely consumed. These important facts have caused scientific and medical authorities to classify it as a food.

We believe that the same care and thoroughness exercised in the production of Beer should be followed in its sale as well. In Germany the brewing industry amounts to almost a national institution. The government encourages it. The people depend upon it. The result is that Germany, in common with all Beer and light wine drinking nations is free from drunkenness. The evils sometimes associated with Beer drinking do not come from the Beer itself, but occur only through over-indulgence or when Beer is sold amid improper environments. There is no harm in drinking

CARE FOR THE TREES.

Advice and Remarks From an Old Freeman Reader.

Editor Kingston Daily Freeman—

While passing the site of the new high school on Broadway I noticed several men cutting the dead limbs from the beautiful trees on the grounds. I admire fine trees, and it would take at least fifty years to replace some of the large trees growing there. The beauty of Kingston is largely due to its shade trees and they have been abused, cut down, barked by horses, mutilated by the wire-man, etc. Now, I want to say that the lives of hundreds of people are endangered every day by neglect and carelessness in looking after the shade trees along the streets. As you ride along Albany avenue near Tremper avenue, look up, and overhead, ready to fall, are several large, heavy limbs that were broken off during the last blizzard.

On Flatbush avenue, near the Telford homestead, you will see heavy limbs hanging over the street, ready to fall at any moment. On Emerick street are several large limbs broken off but still suspended. If they fall on someone what will happen? Who will be responsible? Will it be the city? They are heavy enough to kill or injure a man or child or make a horse run away. Woodman spare the tree, but cut out the dead branches. Speaking of horses. Recently a Sauger-ties man came to Kingston with a large steam roller and three heavy wagons for a lot of cement blocks. On the way back the steam roller frightened a horse drawing a surrey. The man jumped out to hold the horse by the bridle; the bit broke, the man was thrown violently down and the horse ran up Flatbush avenue past the alms house. The surrey contained a small child, who clung to the seat. The horse soon broke a shaft and harness. Several men tried to stop the horse, but failed. Finally three men in an automobile gave chase. One of the men jumped out, overtook the horse but failed to stop him on account of broken harness, but did rescue the child, while the horse ran at full speed. It was a brave act. The whole outfit was finally wrecked at the top of Flatbush hill.

Much needed repairs were made on Flatbush avenue by the street department. They made a good job of the part near the West Shore crossing, but from there up it was only a "lick and a promise." I believe the state road from the city line up is the best kept road in the county, and the travel over it is enormous. The patrolman is on the job every minute and he knows his business.

From my experience in driving at night on country roads, I believe all drivers should show some sort of a light, but the modern searchlight of an automobile is too bright; it blinds horse and driver, and the only safe thing to do is to stop until the auto passes, and that is not fair to the horseman. You will notice that searchlights are not used on locomotives because the engineers would be blinded so that they could not see smaller lights and signals. The nerve-racking auto horn, the bright headlights and high speed are nuisances that could be improved on. Now, I have relieved my mind and feel better, and hope that the result of my observations will benefit some one.

Respectfully yours,

AN OLD FREEMAN READER.

AD. RESULTS FOOLED THEM.

Stock For Two Days Sale Sold in Three Hours—More Coming.

The big silk sale at the L. B. Van Wagenen Company store on Wall street that was advertised in The Freeman to take place on Friday and today was such a success that in three hours time the 2,500 yards of silk placed on sale had been sold. The company thought that such a large amount would not be disposed of before the sale ended today and in order not to disappoint their many customers the big store Friday afternoon telephoned its supply house in New York city to ship another supply of silk so that the sale could be continued the two days as advertised. This is simply another example showing that it pays to advertise in The Freeman, the newspaper with double the circulation of all the city newspapers combined.

may be found in the fact that since its inception has been made under the supervision of members of the Steinway family, and embodied in it are certain improvements found in no other instrument.

It is not merely the combination of wood, felt and metals, but it is the knowing how to combine them in order to produce the highest musical results which has made the Steinway piano by which all others are measured.

CARE FOR THE TREES.

Advice and Remarks From an Old Freeman Reader.

Editor Kingston Daily Freeman—While passing the site of the new high school on Broadway I noticed several men cutting the dead limbs from the beautiful trees on the grounds. I admire fine trees, and it would take at least fifty years to replace some of the large trees growing there. The beauty of Kingston is largely due to its shade trees and they have been abused, cut down, barked by horses, mutilated by the wire-man, etc. Now, I want to say that the lives of hundreds of people are endangered every day by neglect and carelessness in looking after the shade trees along the streets. As you ride along Albany avenue near Tremper avenue, look up, and overhead, ready to fall, are several large, heavy limbs that were broken off during the last blizzard.

On Flatbush avenue, near the Telford homestead, you will see heavy limbs hanging over the street, ready to fall at any moment. On Emerick street are several large limbs broken off but still suspended. If they fall on someone what will happen? Who will be responsible? Will it be the city? They are heavy enough to kill or injure a man, or child or make a horse run away. Woodman spare the tree, but cut out the dead branches. Speaking of horses. Recently a Sauger-ties man came to Kingston with a large steam roller and three heavy wagons for a lot of cement blocks. On the way back the steam roller frightened a horse drawing a surrey. The man jumped out to hold the horse by the bridle; the bit broke, the man was thrown violently down and the horse ran up Flatbush avenue past the alms house. The surrey contained a small child, who clung to the seat. The horse soon broke a shaft and harness. Several men tried to stop the horse, but failed. Finally three men in an automobile gave chase. One of the men jumped over, overtook the horse and failed to stop him on account of broken harness, but did rescue the child, while the horse ran at full speed. It was a brave act. The whole outfit was finally wrecked at the top of Flatbush hill.

Much needed repairs were made on Flatbush avenue by the street department. They made a good job of the part near the West Shore crossing, but from there up it was only a "lick and a promise." I believe the state road from the city line up is the best kept road in the county, and the travel over it is enormous. The patrolman is on the job every minute and he knows his business.

From my experience in driving at night on country roads, I believe all drivers should show some sort of a light, but the modern searchlight of an automobile is too bright; it blinds horse and driver, and the only safe thing to do is to stop until the auto passes and that is not fair to the horseman.

You will notice that searchlights are not used on locomotives because the engineers would be blinded so that they could not see smaller lights and signals. The nerve-racking auto horn, the bright headlights and high speed are nuisances that could be improved on. Now, I have relieved my mind and feel better, and hope that the result of my observations will benefit some one.

Respectfully yours,
AN OLD FREEMAN READER.

AD. RESULTS POOLED THEM.

Stock For Two Days Sale Sold in Three Hours—More Compag. The big silk sale at the L. B. Van Wagenen Company store on Wall street that was advertised in The Freeman to take place on Friday and today was such a success that in three hours time the 2,500 yards of silk placed on sale had been sold. The company thought that such a large amount would not be disposed of before the sale ended today and in order not to disappoint their many customers the big store Friday afternoon telephoned its supply house in New York city to ship another supply of silk so that the sale could be continued the two days as advertised. This is simply another example showing that it pays to advertise in The Freeman, the newspaper with double the circulation of all the city newspapers combined.

STEINWAY

may be found in the fact that since its inception has been made under the supervision of members of the Steinway family, and embodied in it are certain improvements found in no other instrument.

It is not merely the combination of wood, felt and metals, but it the knowing how to combine them in order to produce the highest musical results which has made the Steinway piano by which all others are measured.

Education in the Army.

How Uncle Sam keeps the officers and men in his army up to the top notch of efficiency is told in a special report on "Educational Systems in the American Army" in the annual report of the commissioner of education just issued. The statement was prepared by Capt. Douglas MacArthur and approved by General Leonard Wood.

"No country in the world has as complete a system of professional scholastic training for its officers as the United States," declares Capt. MacArthur. "This is due to the inherent difference between the military establishments of foreign nations and that of our own. Their armies are at all times kept upon a war footing, as a result of which they have ample opportunity for the perfect training of the personnel in the practical duties of the military profession."

"In such an army, the main object is to train every man for the efficient performance of his duties in the grade which he holds when war comes. A lieutenant does not dream of becoming a captain merely as the result of war except as a vacancy is made for him in the casualties of battle. Only in the same way does a captain expect to become a colonel; or would the idea be tolerated that great numbers of trained line officers are to be suddenly transferred to various staff positions."

"Their organizations are founded upon the theory that there is nothing mysterious in the art of war; that technical and scientific training is needed by only a small portion of military officers; that certain things which a Napoleon must know, every officer must know, and can as readily acquire as he; while those things which differentiate a Napoleon from other generals can not be acquired in any school, not even in that of war."

"Such a system would be thoroughly unsound if transplanted to the American army, the organization of which is quite different from continental armies. In fact, the most striking feature in our service is the absence of what constitutes the very essence of the foreign establishments; that is, a great standing army serving in corps, divisions, and brigades, in which the average officer of any grade learns the details of his profession by practical work and with the minimum of theory."

"Our system of military education must therefore differ from that of the other great nations of the world. It must be such as to educate our officers so that they will be able at a moment's notice, when the war expansion comes, to perform the duties of far-advanced grades and to render service in branches of the army, both line and staff, in which they are not commissioned in time of peace. For this reason we have established a progressive system of schools designed to teach officers and men, limited only by their individual capacities for its assimilation, the duty of the man-in-arms in all grades from lowest to highest."

"The military educational system of the United States comprises: The Military Academy at West Point for the education of cadets; post schools for the instruction of enlisted men; garrison schools for the instruction of officers in subjects pertaining to the performance of their ordinary duties; the Army Service Schools at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., including the Army School of the Line, the Army Staff College, the Army Signal School, the Army Field Engineer School, the Army Field Service and Correspondence School for medical officers; the Special Service Schools, consisting of the Engineer School, Washington Barracks, D. C., the Coast Artillery School, Fort Monroe, Va., the Mounted Service School, Fort Riley, Kans., the Army Medical School, Washington, D. C., the School of Fire for Field Artillery, Fort Sill, Okla., the School of Musketry, Fort Sill, Okla., the Signal Corps Aviation School, San Diego, Cal., the Schools for Bakers and Cooks, Washington Barracks, D. C., and Presidio of San Francisco, Cal., the Training School for Saddlers and for Battery Mechanics of Field Artillery, Rock Island Arsenal, Ill., the School of Instruction for enlisted men of the regular army selected for detail for duty with the organized militia, the Engineer Trade Schools; the Army War College, Washington, D. C., the schools of instruction for college students, and the military departments of civil institutions at which officers of the army are detailed under the provisions of law."

MILTON.

Milton, May 5.—Mr. and Mrs. George Booth and child have been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Booth.

On Sunday, June 7, a collection will be taken at the M. E. Church for the purpose of caring for the appearance of the cemetery. Many families in our community own plots or have an interest in the appearance of our village cemetery and this opportunity is given that all may show their good citizenship as well as a memorial to the departed.

The Rev. and Mrs. Joseph W. Chasey and little daughter, Ruth, expect to leave Milton on Saturday for their new field of labor in Liberty, N. Y. Mr. Chasey has been pastor of our M. E. Church for over four and a half years and has been given other offers for the past two years, yet he felt that his work in Milton was not finished until the last conference held in April, when the district superintendent, F. H. Deming, thought best for him to take the place of the Rev. Ackroid, who the physicians said, could not live but a short time, and as his death call came a short time ago, Rev. Chasey was expected to fill his pulpit. As has been told in this column before, the pastorate of Mr. Chasey here has been a successful one, and not only in giving help and encouragement spiritually, as he has that which brought nourishment for the body also where he saw the need. Milton has lost a very good minister and wife. Being well educated in music also they both gave great help in that way whenever needed. We shall all miss them, and now wish them much success in their new place. The Rev. John S. Lull of Montgomery, N. Y., is to be Rev. Chasey's successor and is expected to preach on Sunday, the 7th inst., at the usual hour, 10:30 a. m.

The other regular services are expected as usual, with the collection to be taken for the cemetery as an important feature at the morning service.

Another anniversary of Decoration Day has passed and another good patriotic time was enjoyed. Our district attorney, William Cunningham, Revs. Doyle, of the Presbyterian Church and Prunty, of the Catholic, Principal David Taylor, of the Marlborough high school were listened to with much interest. The Marlborough Band gave fine music and Miss Patten's class from District No. 1, with Miss Woolsey as accompanist at the piano, was enjoyed. Mrs. Northrup and little daughter, Evelyn, played a piano duet, called Young Buglers, by Karl Merz. Commander Woolsey gave an interesting and instructive account of Gen. Sickles. Mr. Woolsey attended his funeral at the Cathedral in New York and gave an account of it all.

Mr. and Mrs. Mears, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Covert, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Norton and Mr. and Mrs. N. Kniffin of New York spent Decoration with their respective relatives here. There were thirty or more guests at Elm Grove House. Clifford Wood of Brooklyn was at his parents' home.

Milton-on-the-Hudson, as we like to write it, may become more worthy in the near future of its situation on the banks of our "noble Hudson."

Every man, woman and child may do their part to this very desirable end. Any child may pick up a stray paper that may come to their notice on the roads and sidewalks and by not allowing waste papers, bags, tin cans, etc., to be seen in their own yards, may thus help very much toward making the "village beautiful."

Friends of Joseph Brown have moved into the Cubbard Cottage and a family has also moved into the Dowd Cottage.

Miss Florence Hallock is interested in opening a class in piano music at her home. She wishes to present the study at its best, as her methods are largely the outcome of her instruction by Mrs. Charles A. Valentine and also with an excellent teacher in Poughkeepsie, and she had considerable experience in teaching music in Vermont, where her success was remarkable.

In connection with the subject of music, we would say that a number have asked if Miss Josephine Northrup would come and take Mrs. Valentine's class, but owing to the fact that she has all the work in music she can do where she is in Mineola, L. I., also with her church music, where the archbishop said the choir and organ music was in those parts second only to the Garden City Cathedral, so it will be readily understood why she remains there.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hallock expect to attend the graduation of their eldest daughter, Miss Grace Hallock, at Mt. Holyoke College, Mass., on June 10.

It is reported that Ray Hepworth and Preston Anderson, who were injured in the motorcycle accident last Saturday evening are doing well, although Kovotch is still at the hospital and considered in a serious condition when last heard from.

Miss Elizabeth M. Page of New York city spent last week with Miss Edith Merritt at Prospect Place.

Miss Akerly, daughter of the late Rev. S. M. Akerly, visited Mrs. George S. Clark recently. Some of the Milton people will remember Mr. Akerly when he had charge of All Saints' P. E. Church of Milton and Christ's Church of Marlborough.

The Swamp Angels of Poughkeepsie sojourned to Milton on Decoration Day and played the team of this place two games. Milton B. B. C. was victorious in both games, score of first game being 6-2 and the second 7-6. The afternoon game was a hot contest from start to finish and lasted 15 innings. In the 15th inning M. Conroy, the star left fielder of Milton, hit the ball for a sure home run. As Conroy was rounding third base, Kennedy, the center fielder of Poughkeepsie, threw a ball from his pocket and threw Conroy out at the plate. One of the spectators noticed that the ball returned was not the ball which had been in play. The umpire stopped the contest and the players went out where the original ball was knocked and found it. The game was then awarded to Milton. It was certainly too bad that unfairness occurred, as Milton would have liked to have played an honest and fair end.

Almost Too Much.

A wealthy Jew on his vacation was fond of horseback riding. He had been hiring a fine horse, and decided to buy it, if he could make arrangements to have it kept on the hotel grounds. He spoke to the manager, who smiled and named a ridiculously high rate, "Excuse me," said the son of Abraham, with a twinkle in his eyes, "but I don't mind if you sting me for my board—I'm a Jew—but the horse ain't a Jew, too, is it?"—San Francisco Argonaut.

HIDING THE JOKER NUGGET.

An Incident of the Early Australian Gold Diggings.

Among the rich finds in the Australian gold diggings the Joker nugget ranks among the chief. It turned the scale at thirty ounces and was sold for $600. In size and shape it resembled a man's hand, thick at the wrist part and tapering off toward the fingers.

The claim had been a good one from the first, and the owner did not have to work hard. One day he was reclining full length idly searching for nuggets when he caught sight of the Joker. He at once covered it with his hand and sat up, rather wondering how he would secure the treasure without being seen. If the find became known every man in the field would tramp to the spot and invade his claim and so prevent his working.

A man in an adjoining claim looked up. "Found anything?" he asked. "No. Seen the color; that's all. Pitch my coat over to me, will you? It's lying near there. I want a smoke." "Here you are, mate. But what's the matter? You look pale. Don't you feel right?" "I'm all right, only the sun is a bit hot."

He was struggling with an insane desire to laugh, but he got his coat over the nugget and seated himself on the top of it. Then laughter overpowered him, and he became hysterical. Those about him wondered, but thought the sun had affected him.

In a little while he gained his composure and decided to go to his tent. In lifting his coat he managed to take up the lump of gold, and no one knew that he had found anything. It was not until ten days had passed that the fact was noised abroad, and even then few knew the claim whence the Joker came.

Unkind Words.

Unkind words do as much harm as unkind deeds. Many a heart has been stabbed to death by a few little words. There is a charity which consists in withholding words, in keeping back harsh judgments, in abstaining from speech, if to speak is to condemn. Such charity hears the tale of slander, but does not repeat it; listens in silence, but forbears comment; then looks the unpleasant secret within the very depths of the heart.

Thoroughly Base.

An old forger who had served five terms in various penitentiaries, and who is now refraining from fancy penmanship in order to enjoy an uninterrupted vacation for a week or two, accords us the following epigram from the depth of his experience: "I never realized the complete baseness of my nature until one day I found myself unconsciously raising my own check!"

"Their organizations are founded upon the theory that there is nothing mysterious in the art of war; that technical and scientific training is needed by only a small portion of military officers; that certain things which a Napoleon must know, every officer must know, and can as readily acquire as he; while those things which differentiate a Napoleon from other generals can not be acquired in any school, not even in that of war."

"Such a system would be thoroughly unsound if transplanted to the American army, the organization of which is quite different from continental armies. In fact, the most striking feature in our service is the absence of what constitutes the very essence of the foreign establishments; that is, a great standing army serving in corps, divisions, and brigades, in which the average officer of any grade learns the details of his profession by practical work and with the minimum of theory."

"Our system of military education must therefore differ from that of the other great nations of the world. It must be such as to educate our officers so that they will be able at a moment's notice, when the war expansion comes, to perform the duties of far-advanced grades and to render service in branches of the army, both line and staff, in which they are not commissioned in time of peace. For this reason we have established a progressive system of schools designed to teach officers and men, limited only by their individual capacities for its assimilation, the duty of the man-in-arms in all grades from lowest to highest."

"The military educational system of the United States comprises: The Military Academy at West Point for the education of cadets; post schools for the instruction of enlisted men; garrison schools for the instruction of officers in subjects pertaining to the performance of their ordinary duties; the Army Service Schools at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., including the Army School of the Line, the Army Staff College, the Army Signal School, the Army Field Engineer School, the Army Field Service and Correspondence School for medical officers; the Special Service Schools, consisting of the Engineer School, Washington Barracks, D. C., the Coast Artillery School, Fort Monroe, Va., the Mounted Service School, Fort Riley, Kans., the Army Medical School, Washington, D. C., the School of Fire for Field Artillery, Fort Sill, Okla., the School of Musketry, Fort Sill, Okla., the Signal Corps Aviation School, San Diego, Cal., the Schools for Bakers and Cooks, Washington Barracks, D. C., and Presidio of San Francisco, Cal., the Training School for Saddlers and for Battery Mechanics of Field Artillery, Rock Island Arsenal, Ill., the School of Instruction for enlisted men of the regular army selected for detail for duty with the organized militia, the Engineer Trade Schools; the Army War College, Washington, D. C., the schools of instruction for college students, and the military departments of civil institutions at which officers of the army are detailed under the provisions of law."

MILTON.

Milton, May 5.—Mr. and Mrs. George Booth and child have been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Booth.

On Sunday, June 7, a collection will be taken at the M. E. Church for the purpose of caring for the appearance of the cemetery. Many families in our community own plots or have an interest in the appearance of our village cemetery and this opportunity is given that all may show their good citizenship as well as a memorial to the departed.

The Rev. and Mrs. Joseph W. Chasey and little daughter, Ruth, expect to leave Milton on Saturday for their new field of labor in Liberty, N. Y. Mr. Chasey has been pastor of our M. E. Church for over four and a half years and has been given other offers for the past two years, yet he felt that his work in Milton was not finished until the last conference held in April, when the district superintendent, F. H. Deming, thought best for him to take the place of the Rev. Ackroid, who the physicians said, could not live but a short time, and as his death came a short time ago, Rev. Chasey was expected to fill his pulpit. As has been told in this column before, the pastorate of Mr. Chasey here has been a successful one, and not only in giving help and encouragement spiritually, but also where he saw the need. Milton has lost a very good minister and wife. Being well educated in music also they both gave great help in that way whenever needed. We shall all miss them, and now wish much success in their new place. The Rev. John S. Lull of Montgomery, N. Y., is to be Rev. Chasey's successor and is expected to preach on Sunday, the 7th inst., at the usual hour, 10:30 o'clock. The other regular services are expected as usual, with the collection to be taken for the cemetery as an important feature at the morning service.

Another anniversary of Decoration Day has passed and another good patriotic time was enjoyed. Our district attorney, William Cunningham, Revs. Doyle, of the Presbyterian Church and Prunty, of the Catholic Church, Principal David Taylor, of the Marlborough high school were listened to with much interest. The Marlborough Band gave fine music and Miss Fatten's class from District No. 1, with Miss Woolsey as accompanist at the piano, was enjoyed. Mrs. Northrip and little daughter, Evelyn, played a piano duet, called Young Buglers, by Karl Metz. Commander Woolsey gave an interesting and instructive account of Gen. Sickles. Mr. Woolsey attended his funeral at the Cathedral in New York and gave an account of it all.

Mr. and Mrs. Mears, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Covert, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Norton and Mr. and Mrs. N. Kniffin of New York spent Decoration with their respective relatives here. There were thirty or more guests at Elm Grove House. Clifford Wood of Brooklyn was at his parents' home. Milton-on-the-Hudson, as we like to write it, may become more worthy in the near future of its situation on the banks of our "noble Hudson." Every man, woman and child may do their part to this very desirable end. Any child may pick up a stray paper that may come to their notice on the roads and sidewalks and by not allowing waste papers, bags, tin cans, etc., to be seen in their own yards, may thus help very much toward making the "village beautiful."

Friends of Joseph Brown have moved into the Cubbard Cottage and a family has also moved into the Dowd Cottage. Miss Florence Hallock is interested in opening a class in piano music at her home. She wishes to present the study at its best, as her methods are largely the outcome of her instruction by Mrs. Charles A. Valentine and also with an excellent teacher in Poughkeepsie, and she had considerable experience in teaching music in Vermont, where her success was remarkable.

In connection with the subject of music, we would say that a number have asked if Miss Josephine Northrip would come and take Mrs. Valentine's class, but owing to the fact that she has all the work in music she can do where she is in Mineola, L. I., also with her church music, where the archbishop said the choir and organ music was in those parts second only to the Garden City Cathedral, so it will be readily understood why she remains there.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hallock expect to attend the graduation of their eldest daughter, Miss Grace Hallock, at Mt. Holyoke College, Mass., on June 10.

It is reported that Ray Hepworth and Frost Anderson, who were injured in the motorcycle accident last Saturday evening are doing well, although Kovotch is still at the hospital and considered in a serious condition when last heard from.

Miss Elizabeth M. Page of New York city spent last week with Miss Edith Merritt at Prospect Place.

Miss Akery, daughter of the late Rev. S. M. Akery, visited Mrs. George S. Clark recently. Some of the Milton people will remember Mr. Akery when he had charge of All Saints' P. E. Church of Milton and Christ's Church of Marlborough.

The Swamp Angels of Poughkeepsie sojourned to Milton on Decoration Day and played the team of this place two games. Milton B. B. C. was victorious in both games, score of first game being 6-2 and the second 7-6. The afternoon game was a hot contest from start to finish and lasted 15 innings. In the 15th inning M. Conroy, the star left fielder of Milton, hit the ball for a sure home run. As Conroy was rounding third base, Kennedy, the center fielder of Poughkeepsie, took a ball from his pocket and threw Conroy out at the plate. One of the spectators noticed that the ball returned was not the ball which had been in play. The umpire stopped the contest and the players went out where the original ball was knocked and found it. The game was then awarded to Milton. It was certainly too bad that unfairness occurred, as Milton would have liked to have played an honest and fair end.

HIDING THE JOKER NUGGET.

An Incident of the Early Australian Gold Diggings.

Among the rich finds in the Australian gold diggings the Joker nugget ranks among the chief. It turned the scale at thirty ounces and was sold for $600. In size and shape it resembled a man's hand, thick at the wrist part and tapering off toward the fingers.

The claim had been a good one from the first, and the owner did not have to work hard. One day he was reclining full length idly searching for nuggets when he caught sight of the Joker. He at once covered it with his hand and sat up, rather wondering how he would secure the treasure without being seen. If the find became known every man in the field would tramp to the spot and invade his claim and so prevent his working.

A man in an adjoining claim looked up. "Found anything?" he asked. "No. Seen the color; that's all. Pitch my coat over to me, will you? It's lying near there. I want a smoke." "Here you are, mate. But what's the matter? You look pale. Don't you feel right?" "I'm all right, only the sun is a bit hot."

He was struggling with an insane desire to laugh, but he got his coat over the nugget and seated himself on the top of it. Then laughter overpowered him, and he became hysterical. Those about him wondered, but thought the sun had affected him.

In a little while he gained his composure and decided to go to his tent. In lifting his coat he managed to take up the lump of gold, and no one knew that he had found anything. It was not until ten days had passed that the fact was noised abroad, and even then few knew the claim whence the Joker came.

Unkind Words.

Unkind words do as much harm as unkind deeds. Many a heart has been stabbed to death by a few little words. There is a charity which consists in withholding words, in keeping back harsh judgments, in abstaining from speech, if to speak is to condemn. Such charity hears the tale of slander, but does not repeat it; listens in silence, but forbears comment, then locks the unpleasant secret within the very depths of the heart.

Thoroughly Base.

An old forger who had served five terms in various penitentiaries, and who is now refraining from fancy penmanship in order to enjoy an uninterrupted vacation for a week or two, accords us the following epigram from the depth of his experience: "I never realized the complete baseness of my nature until one day I found myself unconsciously raising my own check!"

At the End of Forty-Eight Hours.

"Papa certainly didn't manage this European trip very well. He said we'd be in Rome two days, but he made a mistake and it's three—and now we've seen everything and there's absolutely nothing to do for a whole day."—Lippincott's.

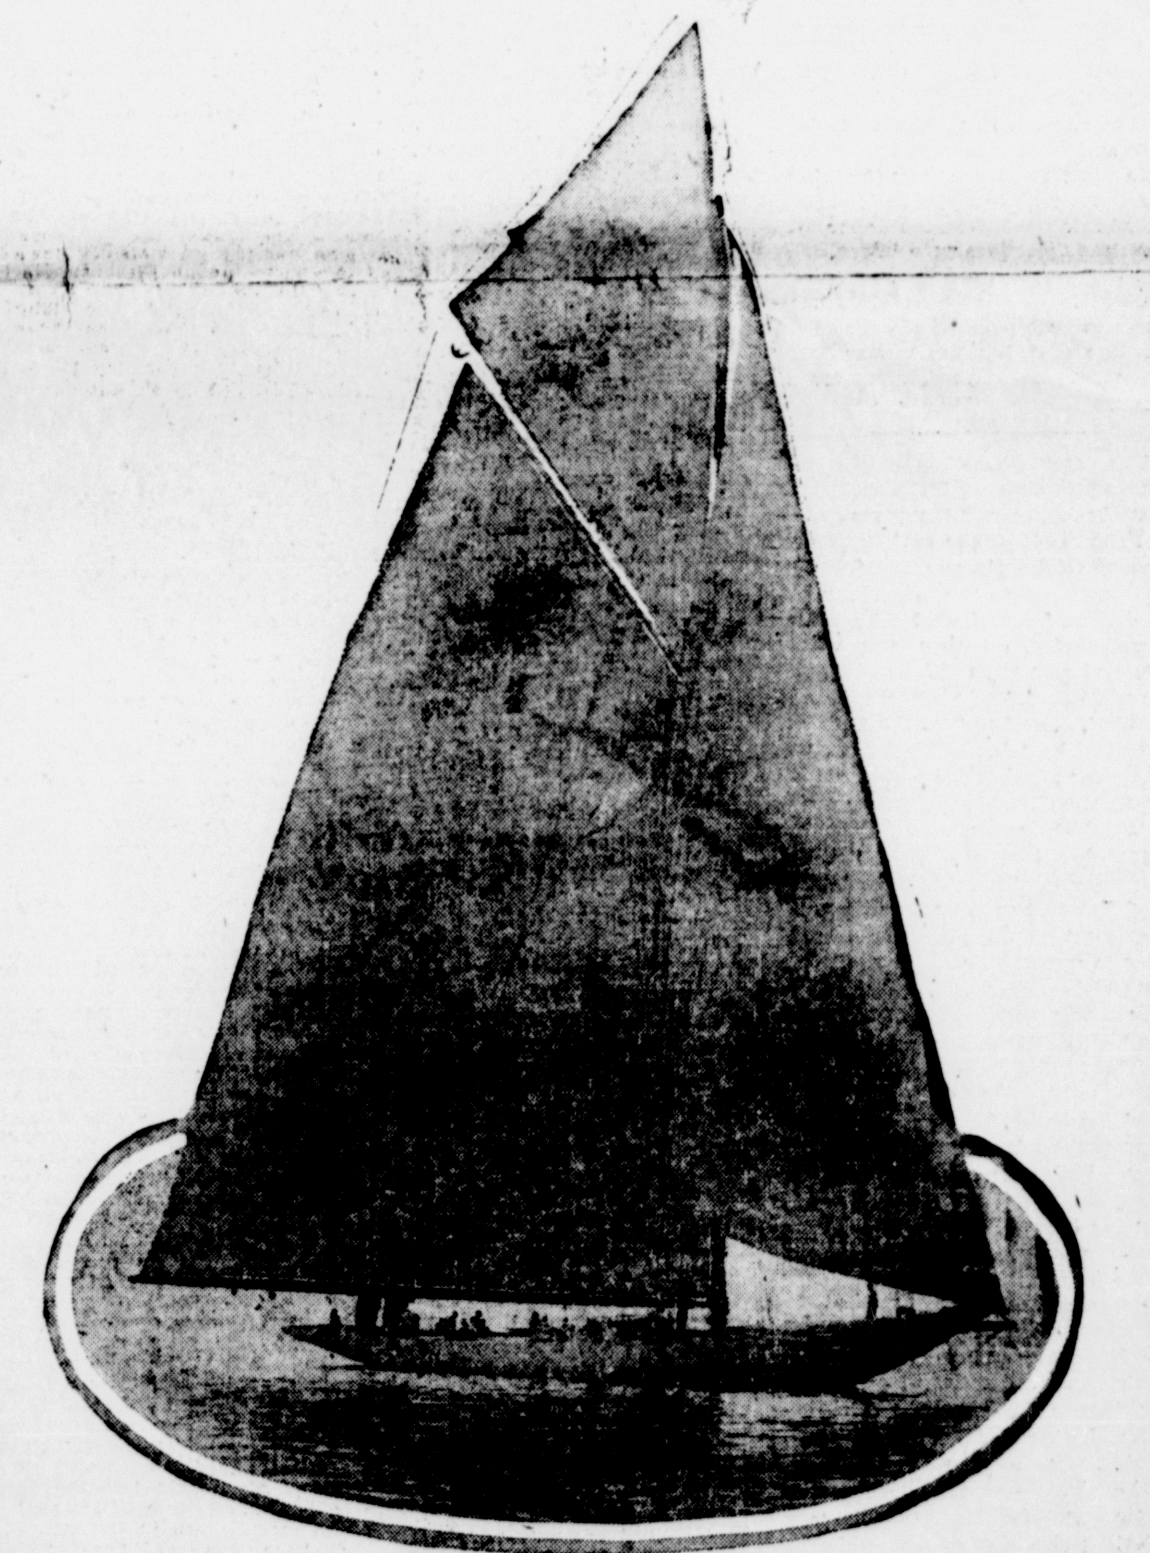

CO-RESPONDENT CALLS HIM "GREATEST MAN IN THE WORLD." (Miss Pauline Langdon.)

New York, June 6.—"Mr. Sears is the greatest man in the world." This was the declaration of Miss Pauline Langdon, named as co-respondent, in testifying at the trial of the suit for divorce brought by Dr. Julia Sears against Dr. Frank W. Sears. Sears and his wife are leaders of rival factions of the New Thought Church. According to Miss Langdon Mrs. Sears did not institute proceedings because she was jealous of Miss Langdon, but because she was jealous of the success her husband has attained in his work.

The Thing He Likes.

About the only time the average man feels any real importance is when on an occasional day off he leaves his $20-a-month flat and permits a solicitous and gentlemanly real estate agent to drive him 50 miles around the country in an automobile to show him 18 or 20 $10,000 houses, none of which he has the slightest intention of buying.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

United States Fruit Abroad.

Europe is the principal customer for all exported fruits from this country except oranges, lemons and raisins. Germany takes about one-half of the dried apples and the United Kingdom a like proportion of the green apples exported. Nearly one-half of the apricots went last year to France, Germany and the Netherlands, while the United Kingdom alone took one-third of the total.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 6, 1914

The belief that it is possible to get something for nothing seems the most widespread of human errors and often leads to the most ludicrous exhibitions of gullibility. The latest and most utterly absurd example is described in another column of The Freeman today. Like most of its predecessors, the notion that for collecting dimes bearing certain mint marks one will receive a free automobile is at once dissipated by the possession of a very little knowledge and the exercise of a moment's thought, but those who believe they can get something for nothing seldom think.

It is encouraging to note that the United States Department of Agriculture is growing more vigilant and prompt in exposing attempts to defraud farmers and others by means of the advertising of fake scientific discoveries. In former years the fraud was well under way before an official exposure came. The sale of red paint to make hens lay, the seeds of oranges that grew on cucumber vines, Adams' "miracle" wheat, perennial celery, and other similar fakes were promptly exposed by The Freeman, went on unchecked by any official exposure for many weeks before the Department got around to considering them. In a recent case of a cure for hog cholera the Department got in its work almost as soon as the advertising campaign began. In the case of the hog cholera cure, as in the other frauds cited, it is a remarkable fact that aside from postage the advertising cost the promoters nothing, great metropolitan journals being gullied into publishing the promotion literature free under the impression that they were printing news of a great scientific discovery. In some instances they even paid for the privilege of publishing matter that was merely an advertisement for a fraud.

The general habit which barbers have of talking to their customers dates back a great many years and is not the result of the craft trying to live up to the pictures and jokes in the funny sheets or the comic magazines. As far back as 1607 a writer complained of a barber who asked his customer if he did not desire to be "sacrificed." He assured his customer that he had "sacrificed many," who had been the better for it. The customer asked if the barber did not mean "sacrifice," but the man who wielded the razor answered he had never heard of sacrificing, but barbers always "sacrificed" customers, and he would not be convinced by the argument of his customer that he was in error. Possibly the barber was right after all. Men can be found who will say they have been both sacrificed and sacrificed by their barbers. Originally the barber practiced phlebotomy, or blood-letting, and the barber's pole as it exists today is the token of his ancient calling. Patients undergoing blood-letting had to grasp the pole, provided by the barber in order to accelerate the discharge of blood. As the pole thus became liable to be stained, it was painted red, and when not in use it was suspended outside the door with the white linen swathing bands twisted around it. This was the barber's advertisement, or sign that blood-letting was practiced within. Later, when surgery and the tonsorial art became separate functions, the pole was painted red and white, or black and white, or red, white and blue, the lines winding around it, emblematic of its former use. The modern barber should discard the ancient emblem used in the dark ages when talkative barbers insisted that they "sacrifice" their customers, unless indeed he intends to practice blood-letting upon an unwilling but helpless victim.

From the streets of New York city alone an army of 24,000 vagrant and delinquent children has been gathered in, and in the majority of cases where delinquency is charged, the trouble is simply that they have been denied the advantages of fair birth, helpful surroundings and opportunities to grow mentally, morally and physically strong.

Yet some of the little lads picked up, on the streets pass through the children's court, on to some sort of an institutional home, thence to fields where they win posts of honor. One of Alaska's recent governors spent four years in the Children's Village at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., another became a justice of the supreme court; still others have reached the posts of mayor, college president, lawyers and the like; indeed, the majority of little waifs "make good," as they phrase it themselves, when given a chance.

But that's quite an army of children for a single city to recruit from its streets, and it eloquently calls to all municipalities to be very watchful of the children who sit in the shadows, and to give them the same educational advantages that are granted to others.

FRANCES SHAFFER.

Happiness.

There are no rules for felicity—Victor Hugo.

The boy willingly promised, and when the mother slipped over the border, he earnestly went to work to show that he meant what he said.

How well he succeeded in the initial steps is a matter of record in Brooklyn now, and it all comes about this way:

He has been going to one of the public schools in that city regularly and all that his teacher knew about him was that he always was prepared with his lessons and was immaculately clean. But a few weeks ago his eyes grew very troublesome, and the teacher notified an aunt, with whom he was supposed to be living. The aunt, however, disclaimed any knowledge of the boy's whereabouts—she had not seen him for a long time.

Then the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children took a hand and one of its agents went to a house where the lad said he was "staying just now."

The house was there, but it was untenanted and quite devoid of furniture, unless one little crumpled mattress in a corner of one room might be classed under that head. That, together with a few dishes, and some scraps of food, constituted the home where the boy was "staying just now."

Nobody knew he was there—nobody but three loyal boy companions, his "best friends," as he called them, who smuggled food to him and kept his secret locked away within themselves.

He is only 12 years old, and he did not quite know whether to be sorry or to rejoice when the judge of the Children's Court, after listening to his story, sent him to a city asylum. He did blink his eyes rather hard when he said goodbye to his "best friends," but there was a little song in his heart after all, for judge, teacher and the boys themselves united in telling him that now he might learn to be an electrical engineer.

And that means rather much to a boy who, in face of difficulties like that, was the star pupil in the school he attended.

His future? Who knows? But, in passing, one wonders why in sending a lad like that to an orphanage he necessarily must be taken from the school where he had registered so well, from the teacher who had watched his progress and from the chums he had learned to love, and who had stood by him so loyally. An orphan, to be sure, and now a protégé of the city, but I have never quite understood why orphans, quite guarded and guarded, must be taught in the institutions where they live, any more than the more fortunate children whose parents are living. Possible objections come to mind, but an infinitude of advantages as well; perhaps, some day, as the "cottage system" grows or as another comes to replace it, orphaned children may not grow to maturity more or less isolated from others.

That particular lad rescued from his poor little self-made "home," seems to be made of the same kind of stuff that carried another boy from the streets of New York to Amherst college, where he is taking a scientific course, holding a well-earned scholarship and paying his own way as he goes.

Eight years ago last April he was picked up in the streets of New York by a policeman, who took him to the children's court on a charge of vagrancy. He had been deserted by his parents long before he was able to take care of himself, so long ago that all he knew of himself or of them was the name that they gave him. He was sent to the Children's Village maintained at Dobbs Ferry by the New York Juvenile Asylum, where he remained two years and might have remained longer except that the superintendent thought it best to permit him to fight his own way to higher education.

From the streets of New York city alone an army of 24,000 vagrant and delinquent children has been gathered in, and in the majority of cases where delinquency is charged, the trouble is simply that they have been denied the advantages of fair birth, helpful surroundings and opportunities to grow mentally, morally and physically strong.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

The best time to talk about being down and out is after you have got up again.—Life.

"Are you going to have a solarium in your new house, Mrs. Come-up?" "Yes, indeed, with the finest goldfish we can buy to put in it."—Baltimore American.

Madge—"She's a woman who is always seeing things she shouldn't." Major—"Don't tell mamma about that, or she'll want to hire her for my chaperon."—Judge.

"How much is this picture worth?" asked the salesman. "That depends," replied the dealer. "How much is the man who wants to buy it worth?"—Washington Star.

Boreleigh (at 11:15 p. m.)—"When I was a boy I used to ring doorbells and run away." The Girl (yawning)—"And now you ring them and stay."—Boston Transcript.

"I can't do anything with Johnnie. Why, he'd rather go hungry than work. I don't see what's to become of him." "I suppose we must face the inevitable." "What's the inevitable?" "Looking forward to having a soap-box orator for the family."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Unexpected Reason.

Congressman Edward L. Hamilton of Michigan told this one at a recent dinner, when reference was made to the bad breaks that are occasionally made by little kids.

Some time ago a friend of the family remained for dinner at a certain happy little home. The friend had an appetite that would have made a boarding house hustle to raise the rates, and as he stowed away the fodder in great quantities, he was interestedly watched by Edith, the little six-year-old daughter.

"Say, Mr. Smith," she finally remarked, "I do wish you were here at dinner every day." "That is certainly very sweet of you, little one," beamed the guest. "I am afraid that you would get very tired of me."

"Oh, not, I wouldn't," was the youngster's startling rejoinder. "If you were here every day we wouldn't have any more food tomorrow."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The Helpless Obstinacy.

Representative Carter Glass was talking about a man who had wrong ideas on finance.

"I argued with him for two hours," said Representative Glass. "I laid all the facts before him, but it was no use. He was obstinate, hopelessly obstinate."

Mr. Glass frowned and shook his head. Then he ended: "An obstinate man, you know, does not hold opinions—they hold him."—Washington Post.

The Singing Touch.

Millions of people play the piano. Few people listen to them. Why is that? Let me remind you of a little story. One summer Joseph Jefferson, the dearly beloved old actor, spent a part of his holiday near a lonely little village.

Early on Sunday morning he met the clergyman of the place. Church and State instantly became friends, and Jefferson was asked whether he would care to read a part of the service. He consented to read the Lord's Prayer. After the service, the white-haired clergyman shook his head. Tears were in his eyes, as he said: "Ah, Mr. Jefferson, you ought to have entered the church!"

"Why?" asked the great actor. "Because what you read sinks into the hearts of your hearers. I thought I had never heard the Lord's Prayer before, you read it so beautifully!" "Well," said the modest old actor, "you know, don't you, that hardly one person in a million is ever rightly taught to read."

Similarly, few people are ever rightly taught to play. That is why perhaps, so few care to listen to the average player. If you will follow these directions carefully, you will learn to play accurately. After a year or two, your friends will want to hear you.—Woman's World.

Counting His Chickens.

Senator Hoke Smith is very fond of fried chicken and it takes something more than a rice-bird-size one to meet his requirements at dinner time. He swears by fried chicken like a Virginian does by ham.

One day on a dining car the Senator ordered a whole chicken done in southern style. It must come disjointed in the legs and enough to feed the frame of the 250 pounds of which Smith boasts. But when the ebony waiter staggered into the car with a huge tray and set the dish of chicken before the Senator, the dining car attendant glanced suspiciously at its contents.

There was the correct number of legs, of drumstick, of back and breast, but only one wing. Smith carefully checked up the entire bird.

"You haven't brought me all my chicken, boy," he said to the waiter. The boy retired to the kitchen and returned with the missing wing. "You can't fool me on chicken," laughed Senator Smith, as he tucked his napkin into the button-hole at the bottom of his vest. "I was raised down in Georgia where chickens have always had two wings."—Washington Star.

Roosevelt in Paris.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, June 6.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, former president of the United States, who is on his way to Madrid to attend the wedding of his son, Kermit, and Miss Belle Willard, was entertained at luncheon today by Gabriel Hanotaux, former foreign minister. The colonel also accepted an invitation to be the honor guest at a dinner at the United States embassy this evening, tendered by Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador. Col. Roosevelt said he would leave for Madrid tomorrow on the Sudexpress, one of the crack trains plying between the French and Spanish capitals.

"Science attacks the sandwich," is a headline. Here's hoping it has better luck with it than we have had with some purchased at railway lunch counters.—Boston Transcript.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 6.—A lower price tendency was shown at the opening of the stock market today. About the only issues that showed any evidence of firmness in the initial trading were some of the specialties.

Pressure was directed against Lehigh Valley on account of a renewal of rumors that the dividend would probably be out at the next meeting of the board. This issue opened at 135½ for a loss of ½ then went to 135¼. Among the other opening declines were: U. S. Steel Common, ¼; Southern Pacific, ¼; Reading, ¼; Ray Consolidated Copper, ¼; Northern Pacific, ¼; Missouri Pacific, ¼; Amalgamated Copper, ¼; Atchafalaya, ¼; Canadian Pacific, ¼; Mexican Petroleum, ¼ and Union Pacific, ¼. Steel rallied at the end of 20 minutes. The curb was quiet. Americans in London were narrow but firm. Canadian Pacific in London was feverish and heavy.

Waterson Abandons Fight.

Ewing Waterson, son of Henry Waterson, the famous Kentucky editor, has temporarily abandoned his fight to obtain his freedom from Matheawan, where he was sent after shooting up a hotel keeper in Sauergeries. Waterson appeared before Judge Arnold in Poughkeepsie on Friday and was informed that no further attention would be paid to his case unless he obtains a writ of habeas corpus. This he declined to do for the time being.

Double Header on Sunday.

There will be a double header on Sunday afternoon at McVey's field. The first game will be between the Red Monograms, Junior team, and the Crescent ball tossers. The latter team was formerly known as Beacons and is a strong aggregation, having defeated some of the crack semi-professional teams of the Hudson valley.

Freeman Baseball Players Will Be Ready for Business June 13.

The Freeman's baseball players have prepared the following document which they demand that the editor have published:

Trusting that our eye sight does not fail us, we see by this morning's issue of the Leader that the Leader force had had the nerve to issue a challenge to The Freeman's crack-jack baseball team for a combat in the national game. The Freeman team through its backers and manager does hereby accept such challenge and will post a forfeit of one hundred large juicy iron boys that only employees of The Freeman will be represented on the team, the game to be played on the afternoon of Saturday, June 13, on the athletic field.

Knowing that the Leader has some team of ball tossers, The Freeman will use only old and experienced players. Such famous tossers of the old school will wear Freeman uniforms: Colonel Barber on the mound, former Alderman DuPont receiving Barber's highballs; Larry Conroy on third and Peter Spetz at short. The outfield will be composed of Zellmer, Linson, Merritt, Gehringer, Wood, Moran, Davitt, Woerner, Styles and Decker. The outfield is where The Freeman's strength lies.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 6, 1914

The belief that it is possible to get something for nothing seems the most widespread of human errors and often leads to the most ludicrous exhibitions of gullibility. The latest and most utterly absurd example is described in another column of the Freeman today. Like most of its predecessors, the notion that for collecting dimes bearing certain mint marks one will receive a free automobile is at once dissipated by the possession of a very little knowledge and the exercise of a moment's thought, but those who believe they can get something for nothing seldom think.

It is encouraging to note that the United States Department of Agriculture is growing more vigilant and prompt in exposing attempts to defraud farmers and others by means of the advertising of fake scientific discoveries. In former years the fraud was well under way before an official exposure came. The sale of red paint to make hens lay, the seeds of oranges that grew on cucumber vines, Adams' "miracle" wheat, perennial celery, and other similar fakes, which were promptly exposed by The Freeman, went on unchecked by any official exposure for many weeks before the Department got around to considering them. In a recent case of a cure for hog cholera the Department got in its work almost as soon as the advertising campaign began. In the case of the hog cholera cure, as in the other frauds cited, it is a remarkable fact that aside from postage the advertising cost the promoters nothing, great metropolitan journals being gullied into publishing the promotion literature free under the impression that they were printing a great scientific discovery. In some instances they even paid for the privilege of publishing matter that was merely an advertisement for a fraud.

The general habit which barbers have of talking to their customers dates back a great many years and is not the result of the craft trying to live up to the pictures and jokes in the funny sheets or the comic magazines. As far back as 1607 a writer complained of a barber who asked his customer if he did not desire to be "sacrificed." He assured his customer that he had "sacrificed many," who had been the better for it. The customer asked if the barber did not mean "sacrificy," but the man who wielded the razor answered he had never heard of sacrificing, but barbers always "sacrificed" customers, and he would not be convinced by the argument of his customer that he was in error. Possibly the barber was right after all. Men can be found who will say they have been both sacrificed and sacrificed by their barbers. Originally the barber practiced phlebotomy, or blood-letting, and the barber's pole as it exists today is the token of his ancient calling. Patients undergoing blood-letting had to grasp the pole, provided by the barber in order to accelerate the discharge of blood. As the pole thus became liable to be stained, it was painted red, and when not in use it was suspended outside the door with the white linen swathing bands twisted around it. This was the barber's advertisement, or sign that blood-letting was practiced within. Later, when surgery and the tonsorial art became separate functions, the pole was painted red and white, or black and white, or red, white and blue, the lines winding around it, emblematic of its former use. The modern barber should discard the ancient emblem used in the dark ages when talkative barbers insisted that they "sacrifice" their customers, unless indeed he intends to practice blood-letting upon an unwilling but helpless victim.

CHILDREN IN THE SHADOWS.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

Last fall a widowed mother felt herself nearing the end of her life-road, and having not a thing to leave to her young son but her own ideals and her hopes for his future, she called him to her side and cautioned him to do the very best that he could in school and to grow up to be "a smart man."

The boy willingly promised, and when the mother slipped over the border, he earnestly went to work to show that he meant what he said.

How well he succeeded in the initial steps is a matter of record in Brooklyn now, and it all comes about this way:

He has been going to one of the public schools in that city regularly and all that his teacher knew about him was that he always was prepared with his lessons and was immaculately clean. But a few weeks ago his eyes grew very troublesome, and the teacher notified an aunt, with whom he was supposed to be living. The aunt, however, disclaimed any knowledge of the boy's whereabouts—she had not seen him for a long time.

Then the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children took a hand and one of its agents went to a house where the lad said he was "staying just now."

The house was there, but it was untenanted and quite devoid of furniture, unless one little crumpled mattress in a corner of one room might be classed under that head. That, together with a few dishes, and some scraps of food, constituted the home where the boy was "staying just now."

Nobody knew he was there—nobody but three loyal boy companions, his "best friends," as he called them, who smuggled food to him and kept his secret locked away within themselves.

He is only 12 years old, and he did not quite know whether to be sorry or to rejoice when the judge of the Children's Court, after listening to the story, sent him to a city asylum. He did blink his eyes rather hard when he said goodbye to his "best friends," but there was a little song in his heart after all, for judge, teacher and the boys themselves united in telling him that now he might learn to be an electrical engineer.

And that means rather much to a boy who, in face of difficulties like that, was the star pupil in the school he attended.

His future? Who knows? But, in passing, one wonders why in sending a lad like that to an orphanage he necessarily must be taken from the school where he had registered so well, from the teacher who had watched his progress and from the chums he had learned to love, and who had stood by him so loyally. An orphan, to be sure, and now a protégé of the city, but I have never quite understood why orphans, city-guided and guarded, must be taught in the institutions where they live, any more than the more fortunate children whose parents are living. Possible objections come to mind, but an infinitude of advantages as well; and perhaps, some day, as the "cottage system" grows or as another comes to replace it, orphaned children may not grow to maturity more or less isolated from others.

That particular lad rescued from his poor little self-made "home," seems to be made of the same kind of stuff that carried another boy from the streets of New York to Amherst college, where he is taking a scientific course, holding a well-earned scholarship and paying his own way as he goes.

Eight years ago last April he was picked up in the streets of New York by a policeman, who took him to the children's court on a charge of vagrancy. He had been deserted by his parents long before he was able to take care of himself, so long ago that all he knew of himself or of them was the name that they gave him. He was sent to the Children's Village maintained at Dobbs Ferry by the New York Juvenile Asylum, where he remained two years and might have remained longer except that the superintendent thought it best to permit him to fight his own way to higher education.

From the streets of New York city alone an army of 24,000 vagrant and delinquent children has been gathered in, and in the majority of cases where delinquency is charged, the trouble is simply that they have been denied the advantages of fair birth, helpful surroundings and opportunities to grow mentally, morally and physically strong.

Yet some of the little lads picked up on the streets pass through the children's court, on to some sort of an institutional home, thence to fields where they win posts of honor. One of Alaska's recent governors spent four years in the Children's Village at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and other became a justice of the supreme court; still others have reached the posts of mayor, college president, lawyers and the like; indeed, the majority of little waifs "make good," as they phrase it themselves, when given a chance.

But that's quite an army of children for a single city to recruit from its streets, and it eloquently calls to all municipalities to be very watchful of the children who sit in the shadows and to give them the same educational advantages that are granted to others.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

The best time to talk about being down and out is after you have got up again.—Life.

"Are you going to have a solarium in your new house, Mrs. Come-up?" "Yes, indeed, with the finest goldfish we can buy to put in it."—Baltimore American.

Madge: "She's a woman who is always seeing things she shouldn't." Majorie: "Don't tell mamma about that, or she'll want to hire her for my chaperon."—Judge.

"How much is this picture worth?" asked the salesman. "That depends," replied the dealer. "How much is the man who wants to buy it worth?"—Washington Star.

Boreleigh (at 11:15 p. m.): "When I was a boy I used to ring doorbells and run away." The Girl (yawning): "And now you ring them and stay."—Boston Transcript.

"I can't do anything with Johnnie. Why, he'd rather go hungry than work. I don't see what's to become of him." "I suppose we must face the inevitable." "What's the inevitable?" "Looking forward to having a soap-box orator in the family."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Unexpected Reason.

Congressman Edward L. Hamilton of Michigan told this one at a recent dinner, when reference was made to the bad breaks that are occasionally made by little kids.

Some time ago a friend of the family remained for dinner at a certain happy little home. The friend had an appetite that would have made a boarding house hustle to raise the rates, and as he stowed away the fodder in great quantities, he was interestingly watched by Edith, the little six-year-old daughter.

"Say, Mr. Smith," she finally remarked, "I do wish you were here at dinner every day."

"That is certainly very sweet of you, little one," beamed the guest. "I am afraid that you would get very tired of me."

"Oh, not, I wouldn't," was the youngster's startling rejoinder. "If you were here every day we wouldn't have any scraps to eat tomorrow."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The Helpless Obstinacy.

Representative Carter Glass was talking about a man who had wrong ideas on finance.

"I argued with him for two hours," said Representative Glass. "I laid all the facts before him, but it was no use. He was obstinate, hopelessly obstinate."

Mr. Glass frowned and shook his head. Then he ended:

"An obstinate man, you know, does not hold opinions—they hold him."—Washington Post.

The Singing Touch.

Millions of people play the piano. Few people listen to them. Why is that? Let me remind you of a little story. One summer Joseph Jefferson, the dearly beloved actor, spent a part of his holiday near a lonely little village. Early on Sunday morning he met the clergyman of the place. Church and Stage instantly became friendly and Jefferson was asked whether he would care to read a part of the service. He consented to read the Lord's Prayer. After the service, the white-haired clergyman shook his hand. Tears were in his eyes, as he said: "Ah, Mr. Jefferson, you ought to have entered the church!"

"Why?" asked the great actor. "Because what you read sinks into the hearts of your hearers. I thought I had never heard the Lord's Prayer before, you read it so beautifully!" "Well," said the modest old actor, "you know, don't you, that hardly a person in a million is ever rightly taught to read."

Similarly, few people are ever rightly taught to play. That is why perhaps, so few care to listen to the average player. If you will follow these directions carefully, you will learn to play accurately. After a year or two, your friends will want to hear you.—Woman's World.

Counting His Chickens.

Senator Hoke Smith is very fond of fried chicken and it takes something more than a rice-bird-size one to meet his requirements at dinner time. He swears by fried chicken like a Virginian does by ham.

One day on a dining car the Senator ordered a whole chicken done in southern style. It must come disjointed in the legs and enough feed the frame of the 250 pounds of which Smith boasts. But when the ebony waiter staggered into the car with a huge tray and set the dish of chicken before the Senator, the diner glanced suspiciously at its contents.

There was the correct number of legs, of drumstick, of back and breast, but only one wing. Smith carefully checked up the entire bird. "You haven't broken all my chickens, boy," he said to the waiter. The boy retired to the kitchen and returned with the missing wing.

"You can't fool me on chicken," laughed Senator Smith, as he tucked his napkin into the button-hole at the bottom of his vest. "I was raised down in Georgia, where chickens have always had two wings."—Washington Star.

Roosevelt in Paris.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, June 6.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, former president of the United States, who is on his way to Madrid to attend the wedding of his son, Kermit, and Miss Belle Willard, was entertained at luncheon today by Gabriel Hanotaux, former foreign minister. The colonel also accepted an invitation to be the honor guest at a dinner at the United States embassy this evening, tendered by Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador. Col. Roosevelt said he would leave for Madrid tomorrow on the Sudexpress, one of the crack trains flying between the French and Spanish capitals.

Best Regards to Science.

"Science attacks the sandwich," is a headline. Here's hoping it has better luck with it than we have had with some purchased at railway lunch counters.—Boston Transcript.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 6.—A lower price tendency was shown at the opening of the stock market today. About the only issues that showed any evidence of firmness in the initial trading were some of the specialties. Pressure was directed against Lehigh Valley on account of a renewal of rumors that the dividend would probably be out at the next meeting of the board. This issue opened at 135 1/4 for a loss of 1/4 then went to 135 1/2. Among the other opening declines were: U. S. Steel Common, 1/4; Southern Pacific, 1/4; Reading, 1/4; Ray Consolidated Copper, 1/4; Northern Pacific, 1/4; Missouri Pacific, 1/4; Amalgamated Copper, 1/4; Canadian Pacific, 1/4; Mexican Petroleum, 1/4; Union Pacific, 1/4. Steel rallied at the end of 20 minutes. The curb was quiet. Americans in London were narrow but firm. Canadian Pacific in London was feverish and heavy.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

Freeman Baseball Players Will Be Ready for Business June 13.

The Freeman's baseball players have prepared the following document which they demand that the editor have published:

Trusting that our eye sight does not fail us, we see by this morning's issue of the Leader that the Leader force had had the nerve to issue a challenge to The Freeman's crack-jack baseball team for a combat in the national game. The Freeman team through its backers and manager does hereby accept such challenge and will post a forfeit of one hundred large juicy iron boys that only employees of The Freeman will be represented on the team, the game to be played on the afternoon of Saturday, June 13, on the athletic field. Knowing that the Leader has some team of ball tossers, The Freeman will use only old and experienced players. Such famous tossers of the old school will wear Freeman uniforms: Colonel Barber on the mound, former Alderman DuFon receiving Barber's highballs; Low on first; Johnson on second; Larry Conroy on third and Peter Spotz at short. The outfield will be composed of Zellmer, Linson, Merritt, Gehring, Wood, Moran, Davitt, Woerner, Styles and Decker. The outfield is where The Freeman's strength lies.

WORK TO BEGIN ON NEW WATER MAIN

Ten Carloads of Pipe Ordered, Which Will Lay a Mile of New Main—Frank P. Murphy Appointed Water Works Policeman.

All of the employees were re-engaged at the same salaries as last year and steps were taken to increase the pressure on the high points by the laying of a new twenty inch water main starting at the intersection of Manor and Albany avenues and going towards the reservoirs, at the annual meeting of the board of water commissioners held at the city hall on Friday afternoon.

Before the meeting was called to order the commissioners went into executive session and announced the following results of the annual election: James F. Dwyer was re-elected president of the board, and Dr. George Chandler, secretary. John H. Harrison, superintendent. Abel B. Abernethy, cashier and assistant secretary. Leroy Cashin, bookkeeper. Thomas J. Ward, foreman. William J. O'Neill and Frank P. Murphy, inspectors.

Want Water Main Laid.

A petition from property owners on Lincoln street was read asking the work to have the water main on Lincoln street extended on that street from the intersection of Clifton avenue to the intersection of Farrelly street. The petition was signed by Charles E. Brown, William Simpson, J. H. Melbert, George N. Cole, E. J. Bruch, Nelson Otis, James Dors, Mrs. A. M. Heiselmann, Elizabeth D. Brown, George W. Johnston, William H. Retter, C. Drautz and Grant Cole. Superintendent Harrison stated that at the present time there were no houses on that end of Lincoln street, but he had been informed that it was expected to erect three houses as soon as the water main was laid through the streets.

The petition was referred to the committee on extensions.

New 20 Inch Main.

Commissioner Roach moved that the work of laying the new 20 inch main be started as soon as possible, starting at the intersection of Albany and Manor avenues and going through Manor avenue in the direction of the Esopus creek and the reservoirs. Carried.

He also moved that the president be authorized to take steps towards securing the right of way to lay the main. Carried.

The board believe that by laying this new 20 inch main and connecting it up every 1,000 feet with the existing main the water pressure will be increased on the high points. At the present time the reservoirs are connected up with a 20 inch main and an 18 inch main that bring the water into the city.

Commissioner Chandler moved that the president be empowered to purchase 10 carloads of 20 inch pipe at $20.70 per 2,000 pounds f. o. b. Kingston. Carried.

It was estimated that ten carloads of pipe would lay nearly one mile of the new main.

It is the intention of the board to continue the laying of this new main paying for the work from the earnings of the department and laying it as fast as the funds permit. When completed the main will be connected up with the reservoirs and water will be conveyed to the city in three mains, two of which will be 20 inch mains and the other an 18 inch main. Thus the board counts on furnishing all the pressure desired.

New pipe has been laid on the high points and the lines have been connected up. It is expected that after 1,000 feet of the new 20 inch main has been laid and connected up with the existing main it will give more pressure on the high points.

The Water Board Police.

Major Chandler reported that Frank P. Murphy, the present water inspector, had been appointed the police force and that his uniform had been ordered. The uniform will be similar to that worn by the New York board of water police at Brown's Station and the force will be armed with a club and a revolver. The police force will go on duty as soon as his uniform is received and will patrol the watershed during the summer months to prevent any violations.

The report of Superintendent Harrison and A. C. Connelly, who recently went to Albany and had an interview with Engineer Horton, of the state board of health, in regard to what constituted violations of the watershed, was received and filed.

Inspectors' Reports.

Inspector O'Neill made the following report for the month: 45 inspections, 10 leaks found and repaired; 55 vacancies; new buildings, 6; automobiles, 12; hose bills delivered, 1,300.

Inspector Murphy reported for month: 26 inspections; 29 vacancies; leaks found and repaired, 3; read and tested 135 meters; 1 meter found out of order and repaired.

WORK TO BEGIN ON NEW WATER MAIN

Ten Carloads of Pipe Ordered, Which Will Lay a Mile of New Main—Frank P. Murphy Appointed Water Works Policeman.

All of the employees were re-engaged at the same salaries as last year and steps were taken to increase the pressure on the high points by the laying of a new twenty inch water main starting at the intersection of Manor and Albany avenues and going towards the reservoirs, at the annual meeting of the board of water commissioners held at the city hall on Friday afternoon.

Before the meeting was called to order the commissioners went into executive session and announced the following results of the annual election: James F. Dwyer was re-elected president of the board, and Dr. George Chandler, secretary.

John H. Harrison, superintendent.

Abel B. Abernethy, cashier and assistant secretary.

Leroy Cashin, bookkeeper.

Thomas J. Ward, foreman.

William J. O'Neil and Frank P. Murphy, inspectors.

Want Water Main Laid.

A petition from property owners on Lincoln street was read asking the board to have the water main on Lincoln street extended on that street from the intersection of Clifton avenue to the intersection of Farrelly street. The petition was signed by Charles E. Brown, William Simpson, J. H. Melbert, George N. Cole, E. J. Bruch, Nelson Otis, James Dora, Mrs. A. M. Heiselmann, Elizabeth D. Brown, George W. Johnston, William H. Retter, C. Drautz and Grant Cole.

Superintendent Harrison stated that at the present time there were no houses on that end of Lincoln street, but he had been informed that it was expected to erect three houses as soon as the water main was laid through the streets.

The petition was referred to the committee on extensions.

New 20 Inch Main.

Commissioner Roach moved that the work of laying the new 20 inch main be started as soon as possible, starting at the intersection of Albany and Manor avenues and going through Manor avenue in the direction of the Esopus creek and the reservoirs. Carried.

He also moved that the president be authorized to take steps towards securing the right of way to lay the main. Carried.

The board believe that by laying this new 20 inch main and connecting it up every 1,000 feet with the existing main the water pressure will be increased on the high points. At the present time the reservoirs are connected up with a 16 inch main and an 18 inch main that bring the water into the city.

Commissioner Chandler moved that the president be empowered to purchase 10 carloads of 20 inch pipe at $20.70 per 2,000 pounds f. o. b. Kingston. Carried.

It was estimated that ten carloads of pipe would lay nearly one mile of the new main.

It is the intention of the board to continue the laying of this new main paying for the work from the earnings of the department and laying it as fast as the funds permit. When completed the main will be connected up with the reservoirs and water will be conveyed to the city in three mains, two of which will be 20 inch mains and the other an 18 inch main. Thus the board counts on furnishing all the pressure desired.

New pipe has been laid on the high points and the lines have been connected up. It is expected that after 1,000 feet of the new 20 inch main has been laid and connected up with the existing main it will give more pressure on the high points.

The Water Board Police.

Major Chandler reported that Frank P. Murphy, the present water inspector, had been appointed the police force and that his uniform had been ordered. The uniform will be similar to that worn by the New York board of water police at Brown's Station and the force will be armed with a club and a revolver. The police force will go on duty as soon as his uniform is received and will patrol the watershed during the summer months to prevent any violations.

The report of Superintendent Harrison and A. C. Connelly, who recently went to Albany and had an interview with Engineer Horton, of the state board of health, in regard to what constituted violations of the watershed, was received and filed.

Inspectors' Reports.

Inspector O'Neil made the following report for the month: 45 inspections, 10 leaks found and repaired; 55 vacancies; new buildings, 6; automobiles, 12; horse bills delivered, 1,200.

COUNCIL MEETS IN PEACEFUL SESSION

Large Amount of City Business

Transacted Without Excitement or Orational Fireworks by the Aldermen.The common council on Friday night held a long session. Dr. Connelly presided. Routine business was transacted. The council gave permission to Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, to hold Independence Day exercises on the city hall grounds. All the aldermen were present.A petition was received from the National Bank of Rondout to have five duplicate warrants issued. These warrants had been lost in the mail and were addressed to the State of New York National Bank. Payment was stopped at once. On motion, the mayor and clerk were authorized to draw the warrants as the bank filed a bond double the amount of the warrants.Kingston Council, Knights of Columbus, called attention to the fact that the lodge with the co-operation of many other societies and organizations, city boards and officials would hold a safe, sane and patriotic observance of Independence Day and stating it would be nonsectarian and non-political. It was requested that consent be given the use of the grounds in front of the city hall and the front steps. On motion of Alderman Zeeh, the petition was granted.Mayor Canfield called attention to the decision of the court in the action brought by Dr. Connelly and that he had been found to be the rightful president of the council. He also called attention to the fact that nine of the wards of the city would have to be divided into two election districts each under a new law. He suggested that the nine aldermen concerned be appointed a committee together with the city engineer and corporation counsel. He also spoke of the workmen's compensation law which now includes municipalities and becomes effective July 1. He suggested that a special committee be appointed to confer with the corporation counsel. The mayor also reported that he had verified a number of bills against the city and there had been allowed except where there was duplication. The mayor also recommended that the auditing committee report on all claims of this year to the next meeting of the council so that all claims can be speedily settled.The communication was filed. Alderman Schick moved a committee of five be appointed to confer on the compensation act. Carried. The chair appointed Aldermen Schick, Myers, Moyle, Mitchell and McKittrick.On motion of Alderman Schick, the privileges of the floor were extended to former Alderman William Rough and Police Commissioner W.
D. Cashin.On motion of Alderman Smith, the matter of dividing the wards was referred to the aldermen of the nine wards affected.President Connelly handed down a communication to the council in which he stated that now as the right to hold the chair had been established by the courts he hoped that the feeling of controversy would end and all business transacted as speedily as possible and not retarded or delayed.
Filed.A claim of Catherine Redigan for $5,000 and her husband for $2,000 for damages by reason of falling in a depression on Washington avenue, near the Boulevard, was read and referred to the auditing committee and corporation counsel. Bills and claims were read and referred to the auditing committee and warrants were ordered issued for audited bills.Street Superintendent Van Keuren reported that he had made purchases of $511.20 during the month. Filed.Treasurer Powell reported that a note of $885.50 for Hasbrouck Place topdressing was due. On motion of Alderman Schick it was ordered renewed.Treasurer Powell also reported that he had extended the warrants in the hands of the tax collector for a period of twenty days. On motion of Alderman Schick this was approved.City Engineer Codwise reported an line. The resolution recited what an increase in property values would result. If a property owner declined to at his expenses. Carried. The chair appointed Aldermen McCulthe non-smokers averaged from 2 to and were at still greater advantage

COUNCIL MEETS IN PEACEFUL SESSION

Large Amount of City Business Transacted Without Excitement or Orational Fireworks by the Aldermen.

The common council on Friday night held a long session. Dr. Connelly presided. Routine business was transacted. The council gave permission to Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, to hold Independence Day exercises on the city hall grounds. All the aldermen were present.

A petition was received from the National Bank of Rondout to have five duplicate warrants issued. These warrants had been lost in the mail and were addressed to the State of New York National Bank. Payment was stopped at once. On motion, the mayor and clerk were authorized to draw the warrants as the bank filed a bond double the amount of the warrants.

Kingston Council, Knights of Columbus, called attention to the fact that the lodge with the co-operation of many other societies and organizations, city boards and officials would hold a safe, sane and patriotic observance of Independence Day and stating it would be nonsectarian and non-political. It was requested that consent be given the use of the grounds in front of the city hall and the front steps. On motion of Alderman Zeeh, the petition was granted. Mayor Canfield called attention to the decision of the court in the action brought by Dr. Connelly and that he had been found to be the rightful president of the council. He also called attention to the fact that nine of the wards of the city would have to be divided into two election districts each under a new law. He suggested that the nine aldermen concerned be appointed a committee together with the city engineer and corporation counsel. He also spoke of the workmen's compensation law which now includes municipalities and becomes effective July 1. He suggested that a special committee be appointed to confer with the corporation counsel. The mayor also reported that he had verified a number of bills against the city and these had been allowed except where there was duplication. The mayor also recommended that the auditing committee report on all claims of this year to the next meeting of the council so that all claims can be speedily settled.

The communication was filed. Alderman Schick moved a committee of five be appointed to confer on the compensation act. Carried. The chair appointed Aldermen Schick, Myers, Mitchell and McKittrick.

On motion of Alderman Schick the privileges of the floor were extended to former Alderman William Rouch and Police Commissioner W. D. Cashion.

On motion of Alderman Smith, the matter of dividing the wards was referred to the aldermen of the nine wards affected.

President Connelly landed down a communication to the council in which he stated that now as the right to hold the chair had been established by the courts he hoped that the feeling of controversy would end and all business transacted as speedily as possible and not retarded or delayed. Filed.

A claim of Catherine Redigan for $5,000 and her husband for $2,000 for damages by reason of falling in a depression on Washington avenue, near the Boulevard, was read and referred to the auditing committee and corporation counsel. Bills and claims were read and referred to the auditing committee and warrants were ordered issued for audited bills.

Street Superintendent Van Keuren reported that he had made purchases of $111.20 during the month. Filed. Treasurer Powell reported that a note of $885.50 for Hasbrouck Place topdressing was due. On motion of Alderman Schlip it was ordered renewed.

Treasurer Powell also reported that he had extended the warrants in the hands of the tax collector for a period of twenty days. On motion of Alderman Schick this was approved.

City Engineer Codwise reported an ordinance for topdressing, grading, curbing and flagging McIntee street, between Hone and Pierpont streets. Adopted.

The following resolutions were then introduced:
 By Alderman Mitchell, that copy of resolution for sewer from East Union street, near residence of Alvin Delanater be referred to the city engineer. Carried.

By Alderman Martin, that the street superintendent replace pavement in front of Ryan property on Washington avenue with brick as soon as viaduct is completed. Referred to street superintendent.

By Alderman Schlip, that Newkirk avenue be scarified and rerolled. Referred to street superintendent.

By Alderman McCullough, that a committee of three be appointed, in addition to the mayor and city engineer to examine conditions on Broadway an report an ordinance for concrete sidewalks or other suitable material from the curb to fence line. The resolution recited what an increase in property values would result. If a property owner declined to lay such walk the city to do the work at his expenses. Carried. The chair appointed Aldermen McCullough, Martin and Moyle.

Alderman Mitchell of the special committee to have dredging done in front of the Central Hudson docks reported that the same had been done at a cost of $403. An inspector had been employed on the work three days measuring and found everything correct. Filed.

By Alderman Myers, that the resolution changing lights on Cedar street be rescinded. Carried.

By Alderman Jenks, that an arc light be placed at Dunn and Abeel streets and the incandescent light there be removed to Wilbur avenue and Abeel street. Referred to ways and means committee.

By Alderman Jenks, that street superintendent lay pipe to carry surface water from Rhinehart property on Abeel street or change the course of the same. Referred to street superintendent.

By Alderman Martin, that when Hurley avenue be oiled the street superintendent oil Taylor street and no charge be made as all traffic was diverted to that street by reason of the construction of the viaduct last summer and the people of Taylor street had no benefit from their special assessment. Carried.

Education Notes.

The Altoona, Pa., high school serves lunches daily to 1,500 students at a cost of 7½-10 cents. There is a net profit each year of about $400.

The teaching of home economies is now required by law in the elementary schools of Indiana, Iowa, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Montana, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Washington.

When six normal school professors at Fresno, Cal., found it was going to cost $207 to install the new play apparatus on the normal school grounds, they got together and did it themselves at a total cost of $25.

A course in social service for parents has just been given at the National Kindergarten College, Chicago. Visiting nurses, playgrounds, juvenile courts and social settlements were some of the topics treated.

A series of meetings for vocational discussion in the Abilene, Kansas, high school promises to develop into a Vocational Club. The boys of the school listen to representative men in different fields of work tell of the requirements and rewards of their particular kind of work.

In a "rapid-advancement class" in Boston, composed of the 36 brightest pupils of the 5th and 6th grades, and placed under the direction of one teacher from entrance to completion of course, the children finished all the work of the 6th, 7th and 8th grades in a year and a half. Only one hour a day was allowed these pupils for outside study.

Close observation of 600 school boys through a period of 7 years to discover the effects of the tobacco habit demonstrated to Superintendent Davis of Menominee, Mich., that the non-smokers averaged from 2 to 10 per cent higher in scholarship and were at still greater advantage in the athletics of the school. Idleness and poor conditions of home life were the almost invariable accompaniments of all cases of smoking and all cases of failure which he observed.

There are 100,000 students enrolled in professional schools in the United States this year, according to figures compiled by the U. S. bureau of education. ## THE P. V. P. CLUB ENTERTAINMENT

The entertainment given by the P. V. P. club at Ulster Academy Thursday evening was very successful and the proceeds netted a gratifying amount to the girls' treasury. Edna Silverstein commenced the program with a very pleasing reading entitled "The Swan Song." Margaret McNelis sang "Longing" and another vocal solo, "Past and Future," was sung by Katherine Dugan.

Several members of the club presented "The Return of Deborah," a farce of two acts. The actresses proved themselves possessed of dramatical abilities and well represented the New England life of an old fashioned family. Ethel Salzmann, as Miss Jane Tompkins, a New England spinster, well acted her part as a reserved old maid. Eleanor Cooper, as the Irish servant, won much applause. The two Tompkins sisters were opposed to their niece's marrying a young man because his father was an Episcopalian. Margaret Lawrence, the niece, has a friend, Blossom Farrar, visit her and right matters. Aunt Deborah, who has been dead for twenty years, runs the household and two spinsters refer to her as authority for their acts. Miss Farrar replaces Aunt Deborah's picture and persuades the Tompkins to give their consent to the marriage of their niece.

The cast of characters was as follows: Miss Jane Tompkins, a New England spinster—Ethel Salzmann. Miss Sarah Tompkins, her sister, about the same age—Antoinette Ketterer. Margaret Lawrence, their niece, a girl of 18—Harriet Church. Blossom Farrar, a year out of boarding school, with a strong leaning to dramatics—Esther Rodie. Della, the Irish servant—Eleanor Cooper.

Mayor Canfield was appointed a member of the committee on codification of laws and ordinances, of which Mayor Lybolt of Port Jervis is chairman.

POWDER TRUST WANTS ITS MONEY

Application for a writ of mandamus to compel the New York board of water supply and the corporation counsel of the city of New York to apply for the appointment of commissioners to try the claim of E. I. Dupont de Nemours Powder Company was made to Judge Hasbrouck at the regular monthly special term of the supreme court at the court house this morning by Judge Van Etten, counsel for the company.

Judge Van Etten in making the application stated that the powder company and its predecessors in title for a number of years conducted a pulp mill on the Esopus creek at Winchell's Falls. The property had been owned and operated by the Hudson River Wood Pulp Manufacturing Company, which was succeeded in 1905 by the Eastern Dynamite Company, which subsequently transferred its real estate, business, etc., to the present company. The company had a large plant, containing 13 water wheels, and operated 24 hours a day, 7 days in the week. The company had been negotiating with the city of New York for a settlement of its claim. The moving papers, he said, contained a letter from President Strauss, of the board of water supply, written May 1, 1913, complying with a request previously made by the company, that it be notified when the railroad would be moved and when the opening in the Olive Bridge dam would be closed, the company asking such notice in order that it could regulate its supply of wood pulp on hand. The company's store house at Brown's Station had been condemned and the award therefore paid. On June 20, 1913, the company ceased operations at its mill. The city began impounding water September 15, 1913, and it was important that the claim be determined.

On November 17, 1913, the company had filed a claim for $300,000 for damages to its real estate and for $100,000 for damages to its established business. The company had an initial investment in its plant of over $200,000 and every day's delay was important because the city claimed that it should not be compelled to pay interest on business awards. On May 22 of this year the company had served on the city a demand that it apply for the appointment of a commission, and this application was for a mandamus to compel the board of water supply to file its petition and for the corporation counsel to present it to the court. The company was willing to waive all formalities of notice by publication and would consent to the immediate appointment of commissioners by the court.

William McM. Speer, special counsel for the city of New York, said there was no objection to the company trying its claim as specifically possible. The city for several years had maintained a permanent court for the trial of claims, before commissions, just as the state of New York maintained the supreme court, and the commissions held regular sessions once a month, and all that anyone had to do in order to have his claim determined was to file the claim and come before the commission and have his claim tried. He did object, he said, to the practice pursued as the papers had been served only this morning.

Judge Van Etten said that short notice of motion had been given because this was the last regular special term to be held here until September.

Mr. Speer said the main point was whether any one of the hundreds of claimants would come around with an application of this kind and have commissions appointed, when the city was already maintaining permanent tribunals for the trial of claims.

Judge Hasbrouck asked if Mr. Speer was quite correct in his statement that the city was maintaining the tribunals, as in that case the claimant might have cause to object to such tribunals.

Mr. Speer said the city was paying for them, and in that sense was maintaining the tribunals, the same as the state was maintaining the supreme court, and that these tribunals held specified terms, the same as the supreme court held specified terms, at which anyone could have his case tried. The claimant's practice, said Mr. Speer, was entirely wrong, and the claimant could not apply for the appointment of commissioners, because there already were commissions with jurisdiction to try this claim.

Howard Chipp, who said he expected to represent several riparian owners, said his understanding was that the claimant must first try to agree with the city by filing his claim with the board of water supply, and in failure to agree, the case could then be tried, but there was a question in his mind whether the powers of the commission were general or whether their powers were limited and they were appointed for a special purpose.

Mr. Speer said the city's position was that the city was required to maintain tribunals for the trial of claims; the commissioners composing the tribunals were appointed for a specified term, and when that term expired, it was the duty of the court either to appoint new members of the tribunal or re-appoint the members whose terms expired. The city's duty ended when it maintained tribunals before which claims could be tried, and that is what it had done and was doing.

Judge Hasbrouck directed that Mr. Speer be given time in which to file an affidavit in opposition, and that briefs be filed.

NINE SEALED INDICTMENTS

The grand jury reported to Judge Hasbrouck in supreme court this morning. Nine sealed indictments were handed up. Two cases were dismissed, John Van Steenburgh, arrested for rape and assault, and Antonio Rillerio, charged for assault in the second degree.

The three open indictments were as follows:

Frank Costello, who recently held up Station Agent Abner Freer at Marlborough, was indicted for robbery in the first degree. He pleaded guilty. In answer to the usual questions he said he was a driver by occupation, 17 years old, was born in Italy, lived in New York, could read and write, was unmarried, his parents were dead and he was temperate in habits. He said he had never been convicted before and in religion was a Catholic. Costello told Judge Hasbrouck he never had much opportunity for an education. Other answers were so unsatisfactory that the judge postponed sentence until Wednesday.

Darwin Hinkley was indicted for assault in the second degree as a second offense for blowing up his family with dynamite. He said he was not guilty and had no counsel but did not desire any for the present. Hinkley's case was sent to county court.

Augustus Petersen was indicted for burglary in the second degree for entering the premises of Charles Mason on South Wall street on April 11. He said he was guilty. Petersen said he was a farm laborer, was 43 years old, was born in Sweden, lived in Potghkeepsie, could read and write, was unmarried, parents were dead, habits intemperate. He had never been convicted before and had religious instruction in the Catholic Church. The minimum sentence of 1 year and maximum of 3 years in Dannemora was pronounced by Judge Hasbrouck.

The sealed indictments were sent to county court after which court adjourned until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

WOMEN WHO FIGURE IN WRECK THAT COST 1,000 LIVES.

(Copyright by International News Service.)

Miss Townsend swam around in the freezing water after the sinking of the Empress of Ireland in the Gulf of St. Lawrence for twenty minutes before she was dragged into one of the life boats. Miss Anderson is the wife of the commander of the collier Storstad, which rammed the Empress of Ireland. All during the horrible suspense that followed the crash, Mrs. Anderson stood at her husband's side on the bridge, while he directed the work of rescuing those in the water. The young woman shown in the lower photograph is a survivor. She searched in vain for her mother among the survivors and then went to the temporary morgue at Quebec to view the bodies that had been recovered. Unable to locate her mother's body the young woman became hysterical, and, weeping, was supported away from the place of death by a hospital attendant and a survivor.

Theirs to Mold Lives.

Mothers and maidens, believe me, the whole course and character of your lovers' lives is in your hands; what you would have them be they shall be, if you not only desire to have them so, but deserve to have them so; for they are but mirrors in which you will see yourselves imaged. If you are frivolous, they will be so also; if you have no understanding of the scope of their duty, they also will forget it; they will listen—they can listen—to no other interpretation of it than that uttered from your lips.—Ruskin.

Read the advertising in today's Freeman and send for the booklet and literature so freely offered.

It is sometimes as much fun studying the resort literature as it is to travel—and it's a liberal education. It is the duty of the modern newspaper to help its readers. In this season of the year the resort and railroad advertising is one of the most service-giving features.

THE P. V. P. CLUB ENTERTAINMENT

The entertainment given by the P. V. P. club at Ulster Academy Thursday evening was very successful and the proceeds netted a gratifying amount to the girls' treasury. Edna Silverstein commenced the program with a very pleasing reading entitled "The Swan Song." Margaret McNelis sang "Longing" and another vocal solo, "Fast and Future," was sung by Katherine Dugan.

Several members of the club presented "The Return of Deborah," a farce of two acts. The actresses proved themselves possessed of dramatic abilities and well represented the New England life of an old fashioned family. Ethel Salzmann, as Miss Jane Tompkins, a New England spinster, well acted her part as a reserved old maid. Eleanor Cooper, as the Irish servant, won much applause. The two Tompkins sisters were opposed to their niece's marrying a young man because his father was an Episcopalian. Margaret Lawrence, the niece, has a friend, Blossom Farrar, visit her and rights matters. Aunt Deborah, who has been dead for twenty years, runs the household and two spinsters refer to her as authority for their acts. Miss Farrar replaces Aunt Deborah's picture and persuades the Tompkins to give their consent to the marriage of their niece.

The cast of characters was as follows: Miss Jane Tompkins, a New England spinster—Ethel Salzmann. Miss Sarah Tompkins, her sister, about the same age—Antoinette Ketterer. Margaret Lawrence, their niece, a girl of 18—Harriet Church. Blossom Farrar, a year out of boarding school, with a strong leaning to dramatics—Esther Rodie. Della, the Irish servant—Eleanor Cooper.

Mayor Canfield was appointed a member of the committee on codification of laws and ordinances, of which Mayor Lybolt of Port Jervis is chairman.

POWDER TRUST WANTS ITS MONEY

Application for a writ of mandamus to compel the New York board of water supply and the corporation counsel of the city of New York to apply for the appointment of commissioners to try the claim of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours Powder Company was made to Judge Hasbrouck at the regular monthly special term of the supreme court at the court house this morning by Judge Van Etten, counsel for the company.

Judge Van Etten in making the application stated that the powder company and its predecessors in title for a number of years conducted a pulp mill on the Esopus creek at Winchell's Falls. The property had been owned and operated by the Hudson River Wood Pulp Manufacturing Company, which was succeeded in 1905 by the Eastern Dynamite Company, which subsequently transferred its real estate, business, etc., to the present company. The company had a large plant, containing 12 water wheels, and operated 24 hours a day, 7 days in the week. The company had been negotiating with the city of New York for a settlement of its claim. The moving papers, he said, contained a letter from President Strauss, of the board of water supply, written May 1, 1913, complying with a request previously made by the company, that it be notified when the railroad would be moved and when the opening in the Olive Bridge dam would be closed, the company asking such notice in order that it could regulate its supply of wood pulp on hand. The company's store house at Brown's Station had been condemned and the award therefore paid. On June 20, 1913, the company ceased operations at its mill. The city began impounding water September 15, 1913, and it was important that the claim be determined.

On November 17, 1913, the company had filed a claim for $300,000 for damages to its real estate and for $100,000 for damages to its established business. The company had an initial investment in its plant of over $200,000 and every day's delay was important because the city claimed that it should not be compelled to pay interest on business awards. On May 22 of this year the company had served on the city a demand that it apply for the appointment of a commission and this application was for a mandamus to compel the board of water supply to file its petition and for the corporation counsel to present it to the court. The company was willing to waive all formalities of notice by publication and would consent to the immediate appointment of commissioners by the court.

William McE. Speer, special counsel for the city of New York, said there was no objection to the company trying its claim as speedily as possible. The city for several years had maintained a permanent court for the trial of claims, before commissioners, just as the state of New York maintained the supreme court, and the commissions held regular terms once a month, and all that anyone had to do in order to have his claim determined was to file the claim and come before the commission and have his claim tried. He did object, he said, to the practice pursued as the papers had been served only this morning.

Mr. Speer said the main point was whether any one of the hundreds of claims could come around with an application of this kind and have commissions appointed, when the city was already maintaining permanent tribunals for the trial of claims.

Judge Hasbrouck asked if Mr. Speer was quite correct in his statement that the city was maintaining the tribunals, as in that case the claimant might have cause to object to such tribunals.

Mr. Speer said the city was paying for them, and in that sense was maintaining the tribunals, the same as the state was maintaining the supreme court, and that these tribunals held specified terms, the same as the supreme court held specified terms, at which anyone could have his case tried. The city's duty ended when it maintained tribunals before which claims could be tried, and that is what it had done and was doing.

Judge Hasbrouck directed that Mr. Speer be given time in which to file an affidavit in opposition, and that briefs be filed.

WOMEN WHO FIGURE IN WRECK THAT COST 1,000 LIVES.

(Copyright by International News Service.)

Miss Townsend swam around in the freezing water after the sinking of the Empress of Ireland in the Gulf of St. Lawrence for twenty minutes before she was dragged into one of the life boats. Miss Anderson is the wife of the commander of the collier Storstad, which rammed the Empress of Ireland. All during the horrible suspense that followed the crash, Mrs. Anderson stood at her husband's side on the bridge, while he directed the work of rescuing those in the water. The young woman shown in the lower photograph is a survivor. She searched in vain for her mother among the survivors and then went to the temporary morgue at Quebec to view the bodies that had been recovered. Unable to locate her mother's body the young woman became hysterical, and, weeping, was supported away from the place of death by a hospital attendant and a survivor.

Threats to Mold Lives.

Mothers and maidens, believe me, the whole course and character of your lovers' lives is in your hands; what you would have them be they shall be, if you not only desire to have them so, but deserve to have them so; for they are but mirrors in which you will see yourselves imaged. If you are frivolous, they will be so also; if you have no understanding of the scope of their duty, they also will forget it; they will hate—they can listen—to no other interpretation of it than that uttered from your lips.—Ruskin.

Spread of Gipsy Moth by Wind. Experiments conducted by the United States Bureau of Entomology prove that the newly-hatched caterpillars of the gipsy moth may be blown, under favorable conditions, a distance of six miles or more. Thus the wind is an important factor in the spread of this destructive pest.

Where to Spend The Vacation!

That is the important question to the majority of American people just now.

The railroads and resort managers are eager for business and they bid for it in a lively manner.

No need for anyone to choose disappointment instead of rest and delightful recreation.

Read the advertising in today's Freeman and send for the booklet and literature so freely offered.

It is sometimes as much fun studying the resort literature as it is to travel—and it's a liberal education.

It is the duty of the modern newspaper to help its readers. In this season of the year the resort and railroad advertising is one of the most service-giving features.

VILLA USURPED.

General Pancho Villa, former commander in chief of the Mexican Constitutional army, who has been supplanted in that position by General Natera, by order of General Carranza, head of the Constitutional cause. Many believe that Villa will not peacefully submit to the new order of things, but that he and his followers will revolt against the Carranza edict and continue an advance on Mexico City on their own account.

Farm For Federal League.

It is likely that within a few days the Atlantic League, formerly the New York and New Jersey League, will become a farm for the Federal League. Some of the towns in the circuit have not been drawing very big crowds and not much money is being made in other places. A meeting of the directors will be held shortly to consider the offer made by the Feds. Nen Hanlon, manager of Baltimore, has requested that Newburgh become the farm for his team and that Tod Deisseroth be retained as manager in case the deal goes through. Middletown is said to favor jumping into the outlaw league.

LOOKING FOR THAT FREE AUTOMOBILE

Preposterous Hoax That The Populace Has Fallen For All Over the Country it at its Height in Kingston.

Baron Munchausen, Ananias and Sindbad the Sailor have been in town for the past few days aiding our own Busy Street Liar to set the populace in an uproar by making it believe that Henry Ford of Detroit would give an automobile to anyone who would send him four times containing the mint marks F. O. R. D. this spelling the name of his make of car. Of course Mr. Ford made no such offer in the first place and it is an impossibility to procure four dimes with these initials because two of them do not exist unless they are counterfeit.

The story must have been started by the same man who originated the famous prayer chain or the other hoax that if one collected a million postage stamps and sent them to Washington the government would make them a present of some fabulous sum of money. But not to be deterred by the exposure of these yarns, there are gullible people in Kingston who look at every piece of money received in change and glance it over to see if they have the lucky pieces.

Let a person enter a trolley car and the conductor turns over the dime, if he receives one, and immediately exclaims:

"Ah, it's a D."

Or perhaps you enter a cafe and call for a foaming glass of the amber fluid. Tending the gentlemanly caretaker of the cash register a coin he gives you your change but only after he has carefully scrutinized every dime.

"Well, there's an O."

The next place you enter and offer a piece of money the clerk will give you the dime and then announce that he has a D. "All I need is an F and R."

You inquire why everybody is collecting dimes and he informs you that Philanthropist Ford of Detroit has decided to give away an automobile to anyone who will forward four dimes with the initials F O R D engraved thereon.

The initials referred to are the distinguishing marks of the various mints of the country. There are five mints in the United States, located at Philadelphia, New Orleans, Carson City, Denver and San Francisco. For the Philadelphia mint, the largest in the country, there is no mark placed on coins made in Carson City mint the mark is C. C. At New Orleans the government places O on its coins. In Denver a D is used and an S for San Francisco. So it will be plainly seen that there could be no possible way in which anyone could obtain an automobile under the circumstances, as there are no F or R mint marks.

Although the story has been denied in official letters from the Ford concern the Busy Street Liar has not allowed himself to slunge on his job and keeps the story going with added details. "A young fellow, who I know personally in Rhinebeck, got his machine early last week. Why look at what Henry Ford did for the working man, giving them $5 per day for laborers and other workmen in proportion. I know it is right for I saw the machine in Rhinebeck on Tuesday."

Maybe it wasn't a Rhinebeck boy but one in Saugerties who got a free automobile. But he got it just the same according to the locality in which one resides. Traveling men say that the country has gone wild over it. The search for dimes bearing an F and an R will probably die down after a while but not as long as B. S. L. is on the job. It seems that B. S. L. has formed a copartnership with the gentlemen mentioned at the opening of this article and it has born fruit.

The manager of the Long Island branch of the Ford Company has issued a statement that he has already answered 5,000 inquiries stating that the company made no such offer but it can be readily believed that back in Detroit some one is leaning back in his chair and chuckling over the free advertising which his automobile is receiving.

THE PANAMA TRIP.

Kingston Y. M. C. A. Boys Will Earn Expenses of the Journey.

Late Friday afternoon G. Donald Richardson, of New York, one of the organization workers of the Y. M. C. A. Panama Canal Club, arrived in this city to confer with Reginald Case and Lafayette Moore, the two boys who are expected to represent the Kingston association on the trip to the Panama Canal which this club will take next year.

This club is composed of boy delegates from nearly all the important Y. M. C. A.'s in the country, and the members of the club are going to the Panama Pacific Exposition in San Francisco in July, 1915. It will probably be the largest and most important expedition ever undertaken by Y. M. C. A. boys, as it is expected that fully five hundred boys will take this wonderful vacation trip together. The party will meet in New York and proceed by boat through the Panama Canal and up the coast of Mexico and California to San Francisco, where this army of enthusiastic boys from all over the United States will spend a week at the exposition and will return by special train by way of the Grand Canyon.

A most remarkable thing about the Panama Canal Club expedition is that every boy is going to earn his own expenses. Our delegates have started to earn their expenses by getting subscriptions for well known publications. Mr. Richardson reports that the Kingston delegates are progressing very favorably, and with the co-operation of all the members of the Y. M. C. A. and its friends, they should soon have their right to take part in this National Y. M. C. A. outing earned.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTS REVIEW

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, June 6.—Some of our nicest men who expect to double their vacation money by betting the original allowance at big odds that America will defeat England in the international polo matches that begin on Tuesday, are taking a bigger chance than Stephen Brodie took when he cast himself from the Brooklyn bridge.

From all we have gathered up to this moment, the English challenging team is just about as good a combination as that which put up such a wonderful thrilling exhibition here last year, and which, at times, swept the American clan off its feet.

One paper, America may seem to have the best chance for victory. And on paper, if you'll remember, the Boston Braves seemed to have a look-in for the 1914 pennant and the Cincinnati Reds and Detroit Tigers seemed doomed for last place in their respective leagues right from the start of the season. Who knows but what the same dope upset may occur in polo?

Lord Wimborne, backer of the Brits team, has not yet decided just how he will line up his men. However, the polo wits are certain that he will play Captain Leslie St. Claire Cheape at No. 1, Captain A. Tompkinson at No. 2, Major Hunter, the team captain, at No. 3, and either Captain Vivian Lockett or John Thrall at back.

All in all, it's a mighty formidable combination, and anyone who holds it in such cheap regard as to bet heavily against its chances of ultimate victory, either ought to get a Carnegie medal for bravery, or be chucked into the booby house for mental examination.

It is quite true that the Britons played poorly in their practice games abroad. Almost any old outfit that went up against the original combination found it easy picking. Also, if you'll remember, practically every dub team that tackled the Athletics during the training season of 1912 succeeded in doling out a noticeable valloping to the Philadelphia outfit. If you care to know what happened after the regular season got under way, you may direct inquiries to the seven other clubs in the American League, or to "Hit From Behind" McGraw, who resides in New York, U. S. A.

One thing that should be borne in mind by those who think the Britons will prove to be a pie counter proposition for the American champions, is the fact that the combination that will battle the Americans is not the same combination that was beaten so often and so thoroughly in England. There are some new faces in the line-up now and the owners of those new faces are better polo players than were their predecessors.

The Britons have shown splendid form in their workouts since arriving here, and they have some wonderful ponies—a big factor in their favor. Ponies are about half of a polo battle. Mount four star poloists on poor ponies and pit them against four dub players who have good mounts and the chances are that the dub players will triumph with ease.

Little can be added to what already has been said and written about the American team. Just how the team will line up when it goes against the Britons still is a question, because the Polo Association has a habit of changing its mind—and the line-up—at the last minute. But it seems certain that Larry and Monty Waterbury and Devereux Milburn, of last year's championship team, will be fixtures throughout the match, with her fourth man to be chosen from among Foxhall Keane, Rene Le Montague, Malcolm Stevenson, H. C. Phipps and probably Harry Payne Whitney, captain of last year's team.

The American team will stand as the best that America can gather. And so it is with the British outfit. Both combinations have developed wonderful team work, both are equipped with powerful intelligent ponies. Both are trained to the minute. And they seem evenly matched. As we view the matter from this distance, it looks as if the team will win that gets the "breaks" and not through any superior showing.

LOOKING FOR THAT FREE AUTOMOBILE

Preposterous Hoax That The Populace Has Fallen For All Over the Country It at Its Height in Kingston.

Baron Munchausen, Ananias and Sindbad the Sailor have been in town for the past few days aiding our own Busy Street Liar to set the populace in an uproar by making it believe that Henry Ford of Detroit would give an automobile to anyone who would send him four times containing the mint marks F. O. R. D. this spelling the name of his make of car. Of course Mr. Ford made no such offer in the first place and it is an impossibility to procure four times with these initials because two of them do not exist unless they are counterfeit.

The story must have been started by the same man who originated the famous prayer chain or the other hoax that if one collected a million postage stamps and sent them to Washington the government would make them a present of some fabulous sum of money. But not to be deterred by the exposure of these yarns, there are gullible people in Kingston who look at every piece of money received in change and glance it over to see if they have the lucky pieces.

Let a person enter a trolley car and the conductor turns over the time, if he receives one, and immediately exclaims:

"Ah, it's a D."
Or perhaps you enter a cafe and call for a foaming glass of the amber fluid. Tendering the gentlemanly caretaker of the cash register a coin he gives you your change but only after he has carefully scrutinized every dime.

Well, there's an O."
The next place the clerk will give a piece of money the clerk will give W the once over and then announce that he has a D. "All I need is an F and R."

You inquire why everybody is collecting dimes and he informs you that Philanthropist Ford of Detroit has decided to give away an automobile to anyone who will forward four times with the initials F O R D engraved thereon.

The initials referred to are the distinguishing marks of the various mints of the country. There are five mints in the United States, located at Philadelphia, New Orleans, Carson City, Denver and San Francisco. For the Philadelphia mint, the largest in the country, there is no mark placed on coins made. In Carson City mint the mark is C C. At New Orleans the government places O on its coins. In Denver a D is used and an S for San Francisco. So it will be plainly seen that there could be no possible way in which anyone could obtain an automobile under the circumstances, as there are no F or R mint marks.

Although the story has been denied in official letters from the Ford concern the Busy Street Liar has not allowed himself to slunge on his job and keeps the story going with added details. "A young fellow, who I know personally in Rhinebeck, got his machine only last week. Why look at what Henry Ford did for the working man, giving them $5 per day for laborers and other workmen in proportion. I know it is right for I saw the machine in Rhinebeck on Tuesday."

Maybe it wasn't a Rhinebeck boy but one in Saugerties who got a free automobile. But he got it just the same according to the locality in which one resides. Traveling men say that the country has gone wild over it. The search for dimes bearing an F and an R will probably die down after a while but not as long as B. S. L. is on the job. It seems that B. S. L. has formed a copartnership with the gentlemen mentioned at the opening of this article and it has born fruit.

The manager of the Long Island branch of the Ford Company has issued a statement that he has already answered 5,000 inquiries stating that the company made no such offer but it can be readily believed that back in Detroit some one is leaning back in his chair and chuckling over the free advertising which his automobile is receiving.

THE PANAMA TRIP.

Kingston Y. M. C. A. Boys Will Earn Expenses of the Journey.

Late Friday afternoon G. Donald Richardson, of New York, one of the organization workers of the Y. M. C. A. Panama Canal Club, arrived in this city to confer with Reginald Case and Lafayette Moore, the two boys who are expected to represent the Kingston association on the trip to the Panama Canal which this club will take next year.

This club is composed of boy delegates from nearly all the important Y. M. C. A.'s in the country, and the members of the club are going to the Panama Pacific Exposition in San Francisco in July, 1915. It will probably be the largest and most important expedition ever undertaken by Y. M. C. A. boys, as it is expected that fully five hundred boys will take this wonderful vacation trip together. The party will meet in New York and proceed by boat through the Panama Canal and up the coast of Mexico and California to San Francisco, where this army of enthusiastic boys from all over the United States will spend a week at the exposition and will return by special train by way of the Grand Canyon.

A most remarkable thing about the Panama Canal Club expedition is that every boy is going to earn his own expenses. Our delegates have started to earn their expenses by getting subscriptions for well known publications. Mr. Richardson reports that the Kingston delegates are progressing very favorably, and with the co-operation of all the members of the Y. M. C. A. and its friends they should soon have their right to take part in this National Y. M. C. A. outing earned.

New York, June 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor, who have been spending their honeymoon in southern waters, arrived home today on Mr. Astor's private yacht Noma. They came direct from Bermuda, but didn't disembark here, continuing up the Hudson to Rhinebeck, the Astor country place.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTS REVIEW

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, June 6.—Some of our nicest men who expect to double their vacation money by betting the original allowance at big odds that America will defeat England in the international polo matches that begin on Tuesday, are taking a bigger chance than Stephen Brodie took when he cast himself from the Brooklyn bridge.

From all we have gathered up to this moment, the English challenging team is just about as good a combination as that which put up such a wonderful thrilling exhibition here last year, and which, at times, swept the American clan off its feet.

On paper, America may seem to have the best chance for victory. And on paper, if you'll remember, the Boston Braves seemed to have a look-in for the 1914 pennant and the Cincinnati Reds and Detroit Tigers seemed doomed for last place in their respective leagues right from the start of the season. Who knows but what the same dope upset Lord Wimborne, backer of the British team, has not yet decided just how he will line up his men.

However, the polo witnesses feel certain that he will play Captain Leslies St. Claire Cheape at No. 1, Captain A. Tompkinson at No. 2, Major Hunter, the team captain, at No. 3, and either Captain Vivian Lockett or John Thrall at back.

All in all, it's a mighty formidable combination, and anyone who holds it in such cheap regard as to bet heavily against its chances of ultimate victory either ought to get a Carnegie medal for bravery, or be chucked into the booby house for mental examination.

It is quite true that the Britons played poorly in their practice games abroad. Almost any old outfit that went up against the original combination found it easy picking. Also, if you'll remember, practically every dub team that tackled the Athletics during the training season of 1912, succeeded in doling out a noticeable wallop to the Philadelphia outfit. If you care to know what happened after the regular season got under way, you may direct inquiries to the seven other clubs in the American League, or to "Hit From Behind" McGraw, who resides in New York, U. S. A.

One thing that should be borne in mind by those who think the Britons will prove to be a pie counter proposition for the American champions, is the fact that the combination that will battle the Americans is not the same combination that was beaten so often and so thoroughly in England. There are some new faces in the line-up now and the owners of those new faces are better polo players than were their predecessors.

The Britons have shown splendid form in their workouts since arriving here, and they have some wonderful ponies—a big factor in their favor. Ponies are about half of a polo battle. Mount four star poloists on poor ponies and pit them against four dub players who have good mounts and the chances are that the dub players will triumph with ease.

Little can be added to what already has been said and written about the American team. Just how the team will line up when it goes against the Britons still is a question, because the Polo Association has a habit of changing its mind—and the line-up—at the last minute. But it seems certain that Larry and Monty Waterbury and Devereux Milburn, of last year's championship team, will be fixtures throughout the match, with her fourth man to be chosen from among Foxhall Keane, Rene Le Montague, Malcolm Stevenson, H. C. Phipps and probably Harry Payne Whitney, captain of last year's team.

The American team will stand as the best that America can gather. And so it is with the British outfit. Both combinations have developed wonderful team work, both are equipped with powerful intelligent ponies. Both are trained to the minute. And they seem evenly matched. As we view the matter from this distance, it looks as if the team will win that gets the "breaks" and not through any superior showing.
